The author at the age of twenty three

Introduction

This second volume of articles done under the pseudonym of "Robert Burns" came only as an afterthought but at least a logical one. The initial volume was a collection of articles which I had re-edited myself on a very out-moded computer while on parole in Pueblo, Colorado. The thought at the time was that, surely, all the work I was pouring into that obsolete machine could one day eventually be transcribed over onto a newer machine which could also drive a better printer. As it turned out, I was mistaken.

And so, rather than let all those many hours go to waste - and instead of re-typing all of that information (which was out of the question to me as I am not a typist) - I chose to simply reach into the file and put them together as their own book. I have seen worse things released in my career in this movement.

In the same file was a smaller collection of more articles which had been done on the newer computer that did come along during that same period in Pueblo in the summer of 1998. They indeed have the "look". Hopefully, they have the content as well. Again, it seemed only logical to do with these what I had earlier done with the others and make them into a "Robert Burns, Volume Two".

Of a total of twenty-three articles, only the first fifteen are by "Robert Burns", however. For the remaining eight, I chose to go back to using my own name. For, by the autumn of 1998, things in Pueblo had been going so smoothly that I was not only relaxing in such aspects as this, I was enjoying my life there so much that I was seriously entertaining buying the building I was living in and making Pueblo my permanent residence.

Then, as corrupt and inept bureaucracies are wont to do, the parole authority gave me a different parole officer. In a matter of a few weeks, this individual staged a full-scale S.W.A.T. raid on me at the house and that ended that peaceful phase in an instant. My politics and the presence of the computers had stoked the flames of his paranoia into a forest fire. Of course, they found nothing.

"They don't want you in their town." Well, I hadn't wanted to come here but the fools insisted because they wanted me leg monitored. Now I had become established and well-liked. Naturally, this greatly upset them. Any pretext at all will do when it comes time for the pigs to strike.

This was a particularly vulnerable moment, which I'm sure they realized and chose just for that reason. In October of 1998, my wonderful friend, Lon Cahill, who had started out as my landlord there in that rooming house, had taken leave due to a worsening cancer condition and had returned home to the Midwest leaving me in complete charge. As with a number of times before, I have no doubt that they anticipated total disruption and loss by their outlandish move at this time.

As fate would have it, I had already collected all the rents and had paid the realtor that very morning. One halfway competent tenant made up the difference in my sudden absence until the real miracle could occur. As soon as he learned about the incredible treachery, Lon turned around and came back to Pueblo all the way from the Midwest... despite his agonizingly painful condition. The days between my arrest and Lon's rearrival were undeniably filled with anxiety.

Throughout the summer Lon and I had been fixing up the three-bay garage in the rear of the property with the aim of converting it into more apartments. And we had gone and brought some of my own things from out of storage to have them there at the house. Among these effects were several boxes of Party archives, etc., dating from the days of Commander Rockwell. The object there was to push as much of this as possible into publication.

To be as straightforward as I can, without the self-sacrificing intervention of Lon Cahill, all of that most probably would have been lost for all time. Lon returned it to safe storage in two trips of two hundred miles each. Then he went home again. The house survived until the summer of 1999 when that third party had to call it quits. I've certainly kept in touch with Lon by letter and telephone and he has seen some of the productions that have been realized from here in Denver as of the summer of 2000.

The degree of in-depth treachery on the part of the parole authority came to light bit by bit over the course of the next ten months, which was the period of time I had left on my parole. Approximately the same thing had occurred in October of 1997, only three weeks after I had left prison upon the completion of my sentence for felony menacing with a deadly weapon (which itself had been a plea-bargain.) You see, the State of Colorado has a really novel device called "mandatory parole" which stipulates that one must serve a period on parole regardless whether he may have done his full time. It doesn't quite qualify as double jeopardy. These law-makers are quite clever that way.

However, if one doesn't have very many actual rights as a normal citizen, then he basically has none at all as a parolee. They know this and they play it to the hilt. No right to bond. No right to attorney. And any time you are detained thus, pending the outcome of any hearing, that length of time can be considered as "dead", with no application to completion of your parole.

On that first occasion during the winter of 1997-98, I took on the risk of a lot of "dead time" and, with the help of a few loyal friends, raised the cash necessary to hire the best attorney in the state at defending these parole holds. In an all-day hearing that more resembled a court trial, we made them look exactly like what they are. The administrative law judge - a Negress - had no choice but to reinstate my parole.

Then followed the wonderful period in Pueblo.

This time, for tactical reasons, I self-revoked the very next day. I didn't feel I could ask again for hundreds of dollars to again fight a stream of bogus "charges". And, minus a good attorney, one stood not a chance in hearing. So the question of "dead time" had to be dealt with as expeditiously as possible. When one self-revokes that way it does amount, de facto, to a "guilty plea". The minion from the parole authority and one most unscrupulous reporter in that town together issued an article the following week which was purely slanderous, purely libellous but which the same excellent attorney who'd represented me before later assured me no one could do anything about.

This may be off the subject (but not really) but it all was instigated to advance petty careers. And the public buys it. Do you not gather the greater, overall implication of this?

Well, once the sacred relics - nothing less - were once again safe, I could relax. Because I had been on the street for the period of time that I had, I did not go automatically back to the same facility that I had been released from at the termination of my sentence in 1997. And that would have been C.S.P., Colorado State Penitentiary, a maximum security prison where I had spent two years already. (I was there under the new "AdSeg" provision, or Administrative Segregation, allowing them to place anyone into maximum security for an indefinite period and without charges of any kind. And, no, nothing can be done about that, either.)

So the next ten months were comparatively happy but, much more than that, supremely productive. On the more mundane level, financial woes which were only beginning to loom up at the time of the arrest broke fully during that time and whereas the State was now keeping me, had I been still out on the street, things could have become impossibly bad for me. All the critical writing was completed and all other matters were brought under control by the time I finally washed my hands of all that business completely on August 25th, 1999... the thirty-second anniversary of the assassination of Commander Rockwell.

And in direct line with what I've written exclusively ever since, the Beast System was allowed its "strong delusion" as it acted out the full measure of its own hypocrisy, iniquity and folly while, in reality, I was sheltered safe in God's protective hand and allowed to compose the works for which I hope I'll be most remembered.

Then I made my way back to Denver to really set to work.

Included in this collection are some of my final exercises in the kind of writing that had won me much praise in movement circles during the previous course of four years when I kept busy by writing for all the various and sundry movement periodicals. But do please take into consideration the very few examples of the kind of outrages that are totally common now which I have cited and put it together with the fact that the movement is so poor that, in terms of the monstrous media apparatus of the Beast System, and practically speaking, no one is listening.

So, among other fundamental considerations, I have once again determined that, should anyone by chance pick up anything of mine to read, we will not be wasting each other's time. There is no room now to kid either one's self or anyone else. That must be left altogether up to the estate of the Beast System. I at least will strictly hold to wielding the "double-edge sword" of the truth.

Some of that style is included here. You'll no doubt be able to detect the change in style as well as in topic matter. It has won me few plaudits from movement sources. No feedback to date from official Beast sources although I can't imagine it or them being any less threatened or alarmed by what I'm doing now as opposed to decades past.

For the past couple of years especially, I've had the warm feeling that I am where I've always belonged. Always in the right service, I now know whose service it truly is. That is a circle completed.

To flesh out what otherwise would have been a too slender volume, I have chosen to include many photographs from out of my family albums. The connection may seem disjointed but, again, not really upon careful thought. Also the added aspect of a small insurance policy against these ever being truly lost or scattered.

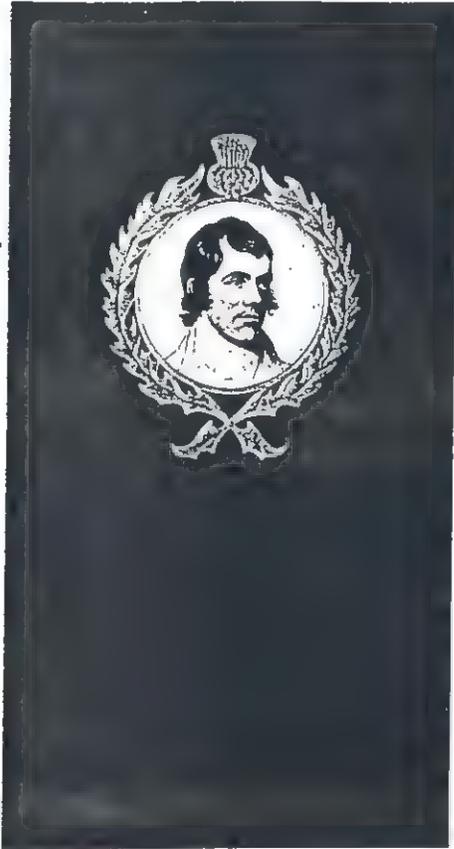

Those are the kinds of thoughts which are with me these days. The Beast System and its cat's paw police forces with their credo of "to harass and disrupt". That their game is up is a 100% certainty. That they are too stupid to even see their own game or realize it is up is equally certain. I intend that as much valuable material as possible from this dying age shall reach over into the next, having been preserved from their corroding fingers. "

Last of all, the business of why I chose "Robert Burns" as my nom de plume. My old comrade, Ed Reynolds, who was the first person I telephoned upon my release from C.S.P. in September of 1997, indicated that he had gone to the encyclopedia to learn just who Robert Burns had been. The most renowned of Scottish poets lived from 1759 to 1796. But, as I told Ed at that time, I never was much for poetry but always was keen for a good cigar. The illustration provided on the next page explains it all.

A large, stylized handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'James Mason', is written over the typed name and address. The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.

The Faithful

Until I joined the Movement, became involved, committed and eventually ran up against the System, I had no concept of what ostracism and persecution were all about. Certainly, when reading about them or seeing them portrayed on film, one knew they weren't very nice but, as with so many other things and experiences in life, you just can't really know it until you've been there.

Any wonder at all then why the messages of the Bible consistently fly right over the heads of most people? The black-handed censors of the Big Brother System know this better than the rest, which is exactly why you may find the Bible literally everywhere. They know that it is coded for all practical purposes and that they have already effectively denied the code to everyone. What supreme cynicism.

That the Bible only talks to Israel is one thing. The God of the Bible only concerns himself with Israel while disdaining all the rest. They do not teach you that "Israel" was but one more appellation to a great and migratory people and that their story, as it is covered in the Bible, only reflects one stop in their long journey, representing neither the start nor the finish.

They certainly do not teach you that if you trace your heritage to northwestern Europe, you ARE Israel, the Bible carries your genealogy and its prophecies are your destiny.

They teach that Jesus represented something that should anything that crawls or breathes happen to "believe in" would receive an automatic free ticket into Heaven. Eventhough Jesus himself is quoted again and again, making it plain that this is simply not the case.

But whatever else, without Jesus and his band of followers - who endured the worst of persecutions - we, who were ensconced in Europe at the time, "the Lost Sheep of the House of Israel", might not have been given back our own legacy and identity in the written form of the Bible.

That truth and that legacy would today and for a very long time past be held solely in the hands of those very ones whom God originally had commanded Israel to destroy. There was a great loss of memory, a great confusion, a great theft of belief and of identity. Jesus was the wake-up call and for this reason was he and so many of his followers murdered, with the rest being driven practically underground.

They claim that by embracing Christianity, Rome destroyed itself. Wrong. The fatal damage to the fabric of Rome had already been done - nothing could have saved it. The same damage that had already killed ancient Egypt, was then killing Greece as a Classical Civilization and, in point of fact, was what had killed ancient Israel of the Bible.

But for those areas and those peoples of northwestern Europe, it was not only not too late, it was just in time. To awaken them to not only who they were but also to the deadly physical danger facing them and to get them to at least partially stand together. To beware of the "stranger", to enable them to withstand several furious assaults upon Europe from Asia and Africa, to rally and even to go back to Jerusalem during the Crusades. Mostly, to fulfill the prophecy of the Bible and to literally conquer and rule the world.

But following that period of unbridled glory came another terrible low point of the kind which the prophets lamented in the Old Testament and within which the apostles of the New Testament had to strive and suffer. Loss of memory again. And dominance and subjection by our enemy, the "stranger". Unless we are unable to be aware of history repeating itself, unless we are to believe that Revelation and the rest of the Bible is but fable.

Most, by nature, consider our own times and their circumstances as only "normal", that is if they consider them at all. The aware, however, will know that these times are unique - if only by virtue of the swiftness and the drama of change. It is full circle according to three witnesses: Godlike technology in the hands of man to rival any miracle in the Bible; A one-world economic system which buys and sells world "leaders" and wherein formerly sovereign states are effectively annulled; And Israel's people once again in bondage, in captivity - this time on a global scale and with no place to run.

Forget about "the synagogue of Satan", "those who say they are Jews but who are not" and their bandit state in Palestine which they call "Israel". Focus only upon those people of northwestern Europe and their kin around the world, It is only they - only YOU - being addressed in the Bible.

Unless one is aware, unless he knows truly what is what, he can hardly be expected to be "faithful" to that which he simply is unfamiliar with. These modern-day, especially American, "Judeo-Christians" with their "love it or leave it" attitude toward this country can hardly see in it the very Beast of the Apocalypse, the Whore of Babylon. "Love it or leave it", indeed. While John tells us to "come out of the Beast", the Beast, for its part, will kill most who try. So the rest - the vast majority - will love it, exactly as prophesied, and will share its fate.

They were trying to tell us, straining to tell us. "Those with an eye to see", "those with an ear to hear". And "here is wisdom". They're saying to us, here, today - "GET THIS!" If we could see it for what it is, no warning would be necessary. No one would knowingly embrace the Beast. They knew the bald truth would be ruthlessly suppressed by the power of the Beast itself. As in the days of Jesus and the Herodian infanticide, as in the days of the Soviet and the Red Terror - persecution would be real.

Here, in the West, apparently no one gives a damn, all is cool and Billy Graham broadcasts regularly to millions with the smiling wink and the nod of approval of the Beast System right over its own media. No "Christian persecution" here. This only means one of two things: Either it is all nothing more than "Jewish fable"; Or, just as the Temple Religion was compromised and lost, so now too has the Christian religion been emptied of all meaning and potency.

My old comrade, Joseph Tommasi, once said that it is well to be either loved or hated but it is pure death to have no one really care one way or another about you. John, in Revelation, said to one of the churches, "I would prefer it that you were either hot or cold." Tommasi also stressed the strategic importance of "heightening the contradictions". Charles Manson emphasized "making them be what they are." Paul himself said words to the effect that the lie, its power and its servants were and would be all-dominant in the world until finally Jesus returned to establish the reign of truth.

That is when persecution happens. When the lie - with all earthly power and force - moves to stamp out the bearers of the truth.

These fat, well-to-do, complacent, hypocritical "Christians" in their wealthy churches and wealthy homes today, the very ones manning the seats of power within the Beast System. The modern parallels of the Pharisees of old hardly could be considered as those "faithful" who, in the final days, would have to bear up, endure and overcome all the worst that the Beast itself has to inflict. As the judges, district attorneys, police, jailers and even legislators, they ARE the persecutors!

They'd never see themselves as the tools by which the "strangers" - the Jews - could literally ride herd over everyone else. It is the Beast System and recognizing it or not as such changes the workings of nothing.

It's the same people involved: Where once they were known as Israel, now it is Anglo-Saxon. It's the same enemy involved: Jews then and Jews

now. The stakes are the same: Survival as a people. The same things led to this then and now: Forgetting the law and who we are. And the same faithful, carrying the same truth - regardless of label - already identified by the Beast itself through the extraordinary measures taken against them: US!

If carrying the Bible won't get you persecuted by the Beast, how about its distilled essence: The meaning of it? Only those with the truth can step on the toes of the Beast. Only the Beast can respond to its toes being stepped on. Crystal clear. Unmistakable.

George Lincoln Rockwell privately was convinced that there was more than an odd coincidence involved in the name of the Biblical inner-circle: The Nazirites. But in 1959 it was too early to bring that out. So instead it became the American Nazi Party.

But time catches up.

Soap Opera

by Robert Burns

"One life to live." "Like sands through the hour glass, so are the days of our lives." No truer words were ever spoken. Yet how many millions sit rooted before the television, being dazzled by changing patterns of colored lights in the form of "entertainment", experiencing only the illusion of "life" as conceived by writers and portrayed by actors? Not letting the men off the hook, same colored lights except now two opposing groups of grossly, obscenely overpaid professionals manipulating a ball around a field.

Is that life? I guess mold on bread is "life". But is it life with meaning, with purpose, with value?

How about freedom? People desire to spend their life in freedom. Freedom from what? Freedom to do what? Again, to pursue a purpose, to actually accomplish something lasting and meaningful?

An animal knows reality every second of its existence as it struggles for survival from birth to death, hopefully passing on its genes during the course to the succeeding generation. An animal doesn't consider freedom unless or until it is caged by man. An invention of man for purposes of control. An intrusion upon the natural state. An example of a lie which requires constant upkeep if it is to endure long at all against the natural state: Truth.

Life is reality and vice versa. Imagine all the technology that goes into the ability of all those millions of people to be mesmerized into unreality by those lights. Into a state which denies the definition and purpose of life. Terrific, monumental effort which can't be broken for a second and all toward the maintenance of an illusion to cover the world.

Does freedom then equal escape? Only if the overall context equals a prison. Hardly natural. We used to say that they jumped the wall in the East to escape while here they resorted to drugs. And that supply is kept ever-present despite any so-called "War On Drugs". They built that wall and made the conditions to make people try to jump it. And they'd also shoot you in the back for trying. They supply the drugs - never be told otherwise - while maintaining the conditions that drive people to them. Like bait in a trap, they'll send you to their penitentiary for going for their bait.

What the hell goes on here?

If "freedom" seems to be a comparative thing, how about reality? Incarceration has been the dominant factor in my life now for several years. Having already sampled small tastes of it even before, I can assure you that jail, prison, any confinement does equal reality in this upside-down world. Basically, it means you can't "change the channel" if you don't happen to enjoy the program. You can go "lights out", of course, but maybe that's what they want you to do. Recognizing that, you make up your mind to not give them what they want.

Even in here, there is television and the majority sit glued to it in order to be drawn in, to be able to at least partially "escape". But - it goes without saying - uppermost in the mind of each is getting out. Never judging, never condescending - to get out to what? Never mind. Simple people just want to be allowed to live their simple lives. While not being exactly inspired by what I meet, they nonetheless all have my sympathy.

"Law & Order". Government and society. Man-made all the way. As sure as it exists at all, you know that someone or something is in charge. It didn't require long at all for those in control to realize they had a gold mine in their artificially induced state of "freedom" - a little more, a little less. A negligible amount of money could buy them a gang of hired professionals by which they could erect a Gulag Archipelago and rake in the real bucks.

Some numbers: 3% in confinement are the old-style "Jimmy Cagney" and "Humphrey Bogart" kind of public enemies. Well over 50% are in on drug charges. The rest vary, having been convicted, as I was, of things that are declared to be "crimes" but which are not. It's the Golden Rule: Those with the gold make the rule.

There was a drug-sweep here while I have been in this jail. Largely the work of one small-time, local pimp who, under police pressure, went to ratting out former friends and associates. The place has filled up and emptied several times as the bondsmen have a field day and existences and families already at the edge are further shattered. I see all races but only the poor and the struggling, those who are least able to defend themselves.

Common knowledge, known in the street, is that the local powers themselves are presently guilty of the identical things for which these poor people now are caged, selling their final possessions to make bail and, in many cases, facing years of imprisonment. Some of the very ones who have bought and sold with the powers themselves. Ah, but PROVE it! Just try. I saw the identical same thing going on in what had been my home in another part of the country. This is a universal condition.

Eschewing and abhorring drugs myself, I'm not part of that loop. (Incidentally, for those who study the Bible at all, anytime you come upon the word "sorcery", read instead "drugs" as that confusion was made in the translation.) For me then it only serves to paint a picture. As an observer - albeit one caged here with the rest (for otherwise how could I see this and why would I care?) - all this is telling me what's going on in reality and not in some soap opera.

There are no "good guys" and no "bad guys" in this. Only those few in power and all of the rest with no power. The society is rotten to the very core. Accident or only the logical result, the reflection of those very ones in control over it all? Of course the flip-side of this same reality is over there at the court house, mere yards away. However, that part of it is reserved for the tiny few initiates who grow fat, prospering off this at the expense of everyone else.

If I'm going to have my "in-your-face", "can't-turn-aside" look at this reality, it could only come this way - as a prisoner of the System, because I'd never be caught as PART of the System. I'm up under it along with the rest but my hands are clean. Something unerring tells me that no aware person would want to be caught as part of the Beast when it comes time to cash in the chips.

Yet what do we really see? A set-up foul beyond description, beyond imagination. I've seen it and I know it's real. And to my satisfaction and contentment, I recognize it as a situation too foul and rotten to possess much of a future. If you can't see it on your own, it's because you're too deeply enmeshed in the escapism they refer to as "freedom". And as such, to the degree you find comfort and security in it, you'll not even want to see it.

So they come to me lately with talk of "freedom" on their lips. Well, if they'd leave me alone, I suppose, I'd have whatever kind of "freedom" they're talking about. After all, they are the biggest gang with the most guns. Or maybe - more likely - they are thrown by the way I react or fail to react in contrast to the rest. Is it a pose? Can it be real? They must test. They erected this as their own nightmare and then set about condemning others into it. However, they're not dealing with themselves here. They're dealing with me.

Everyone wants to "get on with their life". Wrong. They want to get back to their escape. They want to assume a more distant orbit away from the core of the rottenness which still dominates all, regardless. They just want to be able to push it out of their minds and forget - in drugs, alcohol or whatever. This - as much as anything - permits the outrage to continue. A people gets the government it deserves.

These ARE the days of our lives. This IS my life. To confront the System as what it is. I'll make it BE what it is. No escape, no reversion. A mirror in a room full of vampires. I've never done better, never been freer.

They'll dash themselves to pieces on me.

Bargain City by Robert Burns

Most everyone knows approximately what a so-called "plea bargain" is. It is an arrangement by which an accused individual may enter a plea of guilty to a lesser charge in order to avoid going to trial and possibly being convicted of something more serious. This practice has been very common within the court system for a very long time. They say everyone likes the plea agreement method of disposing of cases as it goes a long way toward expediting the already jammed court dockets.

The average person who only reads of such things in the newspaper or sees them reported on television may get a "Perry Mason" kind of feeling by utilizing such phrases. But Perry Mason never would have stooped to selling one of his clients out in such a shoddy fashion. Perry Mason always went to trial and won. And while all that 1950s teleplay may have been somewhat stylized, nonetheless things have altered drastically from the days when Earle Stanley Gardner was composing his novels about the U.S. judicial system.

A number of shattering implications are contained within the concept of "bargaining" where truth and justice, guilt and innocence are concerned.

First, it's all done behind closed doors. Usually a Public Defender (who's paid by the State, exactly as the Prosecutor is) is assigned a case. If the accused weren't a poor person and were capable of hiring a serious defense, he'd hardly require the services of a Public Defender in the first place. Indeed, it is generally as a direct result of his economic and educational standing that he has fallen into some sort of crime. And he is a member of one or another colored minority most of the time.

The Public Defender will motion for "discovery" in order to learn just what kind of evidence exists against his client. He'll certainly weigh in his client's previous criminal record, if any. Then he'll go to the Prosecutor and see what kind of arrangement can be worked out, that is, what's the least the Prosecutor will ask for from the court by way of sentence in exchange for a quick and easy plea of guilty to a somewhat reduced charge. Both counsel will take this then to the presiding judge for his approval and then a so-called "hearing" date will be set. Most of the time, the accused has been sitting in jail all throughout the sometimes lengthy process as he can't afford to make bail.

With it all having been worked out in advance, the actual appearance in court is rendered literally as a "show trial". Show trials in America? Or hadn't you thought of it in that way?

That only represents a door which is ajar into a large and very dark room. Why, any naive person might ask, accept a plea bargain if you're innocent?

There is a very archaic concept of trial by a jury of your peers. Jury pools are taken from local community property tax records much of the time. Property owners versus the poor accused. The Prosecutor will put on a devastating portrayal of personal defamation against which the Public Defender can only roll with the blows. The appearance and demeanor of the accused will convict him as much as the seeminess of his life's history which, with or without any actual law violations, will register in the minds of these middle-class jurors that somewhere, somehow, someone needs to go to prison. Unfortunately, the accused is the only one in that unenviable position.

Having lost the verdict, the accused now is at the complete mercy of the court. Mainly, he has outraged the court by maintaining his innocence. He has challenged their accusation against him as though they may actually be wrong, he has wasted their valuable time. Having been "found guilty" or having been coerced into pleading guilty, it's all the same. That's how it reads on the court document. Therefore, that's as it must be. These days and for a long time past, the mood being what it is, a maximum sentence is handed down. The accused now is a number, he now faces the mill. The prison system and perhaps the parole system which are stories all by themselves.

All so that the established power may look good before its constituents. All so these lawyers may enjoy their lucrative professions. All so that the court-police-prison industry may continue to thrive. If it in some small way contributed to making a better society, then maybe it could be justified. But it doesn't. It only serves to maintain the present status quo which itself is a situation that can be seen to be sinking into chaos across the broad bottom while a very literal police state is erected around it in order to hold the pieces together a little longer.

The trends being maintained by this ruling power are quickly leading to more poor and more colored. They are claiming they can't hire police or build prisons fast enough. So whose got time any longer to bother about "justice"?

The reason then why any accused would see advantage in accepting a plea bargain is clear and easily understood: To cut his losses. But the motivation behind the System itself relying upon such a cut-rate tactic is somewhat more unclear and disturbing. All question of guilt or innocence fades and blurs into gray. Punishment or exoneration become farcical as considerations. It is a game, it is a mill. I've long said that they maintain a growing colored and poor population for purposes of cheap labor, voting blocs, consumers for their cheap goods (as well as for their private dope industry) and as an actual "cash crop" of living human beings to be regularly "harvested" by their police forces and then - to use their own language - "processed" through the court and "warehoused" in prison. Pure economics.

That's not all, however. It is also in order to maintain a permanent crime wave, a reign of terror albeit in relative slow motion. And this in order to be able to extort from the very same, complacent and detached types who make up these jury pools I spoke of before greater taxes, the clearance to remove steadily a few more freedoms here and there by which to build their police and prison state.

The courts? Law? Justice? The object is to bag a kill. Any kill. One of the best tools toward this goal is the plea bargain.

I know of this from direct personal experience. Not the average property owner, not the typical poor person, not the common criminal type. A so-called "WASP". Much of my effort on the inside has been toward explaining to the more militant prisoners - White and colored - that this most assuredly is NOT "the White man's System".

No. I'm a political prisoner. No such thing as a "political prisoner" in the United States? That too would make up its own story.

But I very soon found myself not caring or asking about the nature of the "crime" of any of my parade of friends and acquaintances in the joint. Nor of their professions of guilt or innocence. "Judge not", it is written somewhere. I'm neither being paid nor making rank to help the State do its job. But you'd be amazed at the number of hardened criminal types who actually do just that. Worse, the percentage of those who still cling to notions of "right", "wrong" and "fairness".

Personality, with me, seems to be the key. Those who from inside have seen and learned who and what the real enemy is: The System itself. That is the common factor which cuts out the dead wood. That seems to be what separates the merely extraordinary types from the more common and useless low-lives. This I care about. That at least elevates me way above the utterly cynical System which cares nothing whatever, except where money is concerned. If the System, in its game of folly and greed, can discount every human consideration - starting with guilt or innocence - then I too can forget any supposed transgressions on the part of anyone who seems to me to be of potential in a world of tomorrow, once the System has fallen. I think that puts me on the winning track. I at least see it as a positive.

In this I have known some very desperate yet capable types. Men of reality, men of no bullshit. Men who are accustomed to sudden life or death riding on one's word. In short, the total opposite of those now holding power - but who are going to lose it.

Should the outbreak of anarchy not be so all-consuming that any hope of an orderly sorting-out, of actual justice, of genuine retribution, be rendered impossible due to circumstances, then we'll find these petty tyrants no matter how deeply they may burrow themselves in the chaos and let them savor a taste of their own medicine within confinement. "Those who lead into captivity shall go into captivity."

For them it will not be an outrage or an injustice to be endured and conquered as it has been for us. For them it will be no school of higher learning, no proving ground leading onward to greater things. It will not be that pressure which makes diamonds. There will be no overlaying condition of dishonor within the society so as to render imprisonment the only honorable place to be. They won't even be able to lay claim to being martyrs to any real cause worth dying for.

For them it will only be the end. Oblivion.

And again, should any semblance at all of a reconstituted society be possible once this System has toppled and it is not merely a prolonged condition of "every man for himself", then over these prisons - emptied of the poor and refilled with those lately among the mighty - we'll place those most dangerous and violent specimens I mentioned who, in their tortured and childish hearts, have yearned for - and to date have been denied - answers for right and wrong.

What a bargain.

Such a deal!

Conservative Roots

Few things could sound more boring even to me than anything containing reference to conservatism. Yet few things could be more key to understanding than knowing from where the seemingly ever-present undertone of conservatism within the Racialist Movement comes.

It's no good to try to pick up in the midst of the almost total confusion of the present-day situation. Things have slid so badly off base that everything now is purely relative. Today's "conservative" would surely, by comparison, look like yesterday's liberal. The so-called "center" has drifted thus.

All of that is but a game as everyone ought to know by now. It isn't for real and shouldn't be taken seriously - just as these politicians themselves shouldn't be taken seriously. Equally wrong is it to either be stuck in a mode of conservatism or to waste time bothering to attack it, usually for all the wrong reasons. There is nothing relevant of a political, philosophical or economic nature involved in the reality of it.

Going back to square one, if an individual has the capacity to separate himself from this "fun house" world of illusion today and has the ability to move backward in time - via a learned grasp of history - to when things were still what they appeared to be and what they were supposed to be, he will perceive a conscious and united White nation. And though the rats were there, present in the woodwork even then, it was this White nation which represented the target that they had their sights set upon to undermine and destroy.

Literally every social, political, military, economic and legislative move made since the dawn of the Twentieth Century to this day has been calculated and engineered to knock off track this White nation. The history of modern conservatism then concerns itself with what has been "going wrong" and, without saying it, how that has been impinging upon the well-being of the White race, because, as the fortunes of the White race ebb and flow, so do that of the country itself.

Old-fashioned conservatism had its levels and degrees according to whether one branch or another of it recognized the conspiracy at work in this and also to what, if any, extent it had the gumption to name names. And to that same extent were these elements of it labelled by the enemy, alien-dominated media as "radical", "extremist" or even "hate monger".

Thus was mainstream political conservatism kept tame and ineffectual as it sought not to raise the anger of its own sworn enemy. That is, raise its anger by identifying it and accusing it. The horror and the crime of this was that it was going on even while this same enemy was still fastening its grip over the workings of the nation, well before this grip was complete. This nation was betrayed by cowardice.

To live and function well and respectably - and safely - within this society, one cannot afford to be accused of being either "anti-Semitic" or "racist". And by this is not only the nature of the prevailing power itself betrayed to the astute, so is the popular mindset. Therefore, the problem can't even be broached as a problem, much less discussed or addressed. Only meaningless babble from the Bill Buckley types while the real power which sets the very trends continues to do its terrible work.

As a reaction to this kind of betrayal, the nakedly and unashamedly "Nazi" wing of the already-dubbed "Radical Right" was born in the late 1950s. With no more ability to affect things in general than the pussy-footing, phony conservatives, at least we are not playing into the game of the hidden enemy, we are not "in bed" with them, they do not pull our strings. We at least do not pretend that this is anyone's game or that it can be "fixed".

The power resents even while it utilizes the obfuscation and foot-dragging of these essentially sold-out conservative politicians against its own essentially Bolshevik agenda because it acts as a buffer, a safety, against raising too much sudden alarm, by their moving too fast, among the otherwise duped and pacified White majority - the target.

But there is only one power in the land and it is strictly according to that that the country has had its direction determined since the earliest years of this century, and even before. "Ye shall know them by their fruits."

What began as White, which came under attack from within, which has been losing ground steadily ever since - that is the conservative "movement" and the conservative reaction. The White nation, the foundation of all, attacked, subverted, compromised, eroded, betrayed. The society, though thoroughly rotten and alien today, still only exists and survives over whatever remains of the original White framework.

Minus that, you might as well have the Congo, etc., right here. Where else can all the "liberalism", the "advancement of colored people", the on-coming "banana republic" police state be leading? It's all in direct proportion to White numbers and White order. And both are fading fast.

The worst tragedy and irony is that the White nation, such as it remains, fully shoulders the apparatus which operates for its own destruction. This so-called "order" is maintained and paid for by Whites. It is largely manned at the top and all levels by duped and sold-out Whites. White masses, seeing only this much, assume it to be "their" system. And by their cooperation with it, their participation in it, they enable it to go on digging their grave. Its goals and its results have been and are the dispossession, enslavement and eradication of the White nation.

When not chipping away at traditional White values and institutions - of which practically none now exist any longer - every move made by the power goes toward entrenching and spreading its own control. With the passage of time, as the White advantage shrinks, the chances for success of any eventual White revolt are diminished. "Gun control", etc. Numbers can be deceptive. Mere head counts can deceive as more and more Whites come to think and act less White all the time. Literally marked for destruction - self-destruction.

Sheep led by wolves. Proof? The continuing phenomenon of "White flight" from areas where coloreds begin to appear in numbers. Whites don't want any part of this. Coloreds are "free" to invade White neighborhoods but Whites aren't "free" to take measures to preserve their own integrity. The government itself is anti-White and there is no legal ability to resist. So people "vote with their feet".

There are Black riots. Why no White riots? It is because the masses of Whites still mistakenly believe that this government and this order is somehow "theirs". As long as that is the case, the downward trend will only continue.

There is no "iron curtain" here however. Instead, the neo-Bolsheviks institute such things as "busing", "affirmative action", etc., in order to cram coloreds down the throats of Whites. The goal and the result of this - far from the "justice" and the "equality" declared for it - is to cause young Whites to lose their sense of identity, become lost and thereby to become easy prey. "You can run but you can't hide." Every home has a television set and everything coming over that set is generated by the same, anti-White power. It is required for the young to attend school and these schools are run by more of the same who've already been well conditioned by these alien masters.

To really resist on the basis of what truly is at stake is to be found guilty of "hate crimes", perhaps even of "terrorism".

And so they allow conservatism. You may continue to be politely analytical over the brutal rape continually being committed against your people. This and no more.

As sheep they continue to hold to the enemy-defined rules of play which dictate that this be treated as an issue that is money-based. Naturally they would. The same alien minority controls the money by which they buy and sell all "leaders", all "politicians". People for generations have been voting for "the lesser of two evils". Why in God's name be governed by any evil? Unless you are ruled by your enemies and that is all they will permit you. In which case the only question is the time-table to your ultimate destruction.

Liberals, a little faster. Conservatives, a little slower.

As Racial Separatists, we have this only as our roots in conservatism: We are enraged by the enemy, alien assault on our nation and are determined to, at the very least, not be any part of it, and, if at all possible, thwart it in any way and at any cost. Toward that end, our willingness to name and accuse those perpetrating this as well as to break away from or destroy the governmental apparatus which represents a dagger to the people's throat is what carries us over the threshold from conservatism, beyond reaction and into revolution.

We will not cooperate in our own destruction by pretending that such a threat does not exist. There will be a White nation or no nation. Existing boundaries, "law-and-order", etc., may all go to hell if necessary if they are seen to bind our people to helplessness in the face of an extension of the Third World over North America, (U.S. inner-cities being there already.)

The power has labelled White life and White self-defence as "reprehensible" and "evil". Priorities must be gotten straight. Conservation of the species - the only kind of conservatism that counts - is only a reality once the "poachers", the "predators", the wolves have been done away with completely. Whites who are Whites in charge of Whites who want to be White. Otherwise, misery, shame and extinction are the only future.

Should that happen, there will be no chance then for any conservative "I told you so." It will be then "mission accomplished", "over and out" for the racial enemy. Future zero.

However, should the alien power and its alien society die first, ahead of their goal, then the apparatus of death will die with them, leaving the field wide open.

The foundation of that is straining to the breaking point now - to be reached at some point during the Twenty-first Century. Some - more all the time - are determined that there will arise a new, racially based White State from out of these ruins. One with Whites having re-taken charge over themselves, with the source of alien infestation and domination cut off, with all racial aliens expelled.

A new beginning.

A Correct Diagnosis

23

"A correct diagnosis means a disease halfway cured." Obviously, if you don't know what's wrong, you can't do anything about it. Whether something's wrong and, if so, exactly the nature of it calls for awareness if the condition is not to worsen and destroy the host organism. As it is with individuals so it is with entire peoples. And as it is with peoples, so it is with situations.

If we can diagnose the situation we find ourselves in accurately we'll see it to be, after all, a meaningless game. All energy and power to futility. You can call it "wrong", "wicked", "evil", "outrageous" or any name you choose - and you might be correct in a limited sense. But it is all power, all wealth, all effort, all concentration toward the service of a lie and in the service of an end which any semi-astute person can easily tell represents the grave.

What to "do" about it? You can't affect it. "We" can't affect it. But through this kind of awareness we can hold its affect upon us to a minimum. The Great Satan, the Beast, the New World Order. "Foul baboonery." An infantile game but with its hand on the nuclear trigger and from that pinnacle downward to all the armies, bureaus, police departments, etc., of the world at its command. And still a child's game of idiocy.

"Get thee behind me." Their power to do whatever they will changes nothing. They remain what they are, we remain what we are and the situation itself remains unchanged, with its logical and pre-set conclusion out there, one more day closer. And doesn't it upset them. Those of them not fully in the know, watching their best, most extraordinary efforts turning to clay and crumbling before their eyes. Some begin to sense their whole life's purpose is for naught but the measly paycheck their master tosses them occasionally holds them in thrall and it reflects on their faces and in their actions.

For the sake of awareness. Incarceration means different things to different people. For the genuinely criminal class, not much is represented beyond the proverbial "revolving door". Common crime is but their nature and pattern and it once again testifies to the futility of the System which maintains such types within the society in any context whatsoever. For the political prisoner, however, it represents a test, even an honor.

Perhaps a pertinent question would be what the meaning of "freedom" is or should be. Should freedom - always a comparative thing at best - represent only the opportunity to escape awareness or reality, the chance to go back to sleep? The chance to revert, phase out, blend in? Being the relative condition that it is - practically an illusion - and fully subject to the whim of the State, then it could amount to no more than a chain they use to yank people around. The fact that most bear no concept of any of this doesn't change anything, either. When someone does raise their head and the System reacts in its typical manner, all is defined at once, in an instant.

Those asleep this way are as good as those who are already dead. Life and the contest are not theirs.

Silly children's games. Doing what they shouldn't be doing, messing in areas where they shouldn't be messing. Power without real authority. This much by itself spells its own outcome. Our burden? To put up with the imposed nonsense, the gross imposition - the "noise" and the "mischief" of ill-disciplined children - albeit with the somewhat dismaying dimension added of State power in their hands until it does blow over. "Until they get done doing whatever it is they're doing," as Charles Manson says.

To be able to remove ourselves from the former role of "part-timers" in an imagined game of "shadow politics" and see and know this is real, this is full-time, this is IT! To see and know the enemy for what it is - what they are - buffoonery but with all the power - and to calmly but determinedly go about doing what we must do, brushing off whatever childish interruption or inconvenience - regarding that also as what it is - as the State may throw against us in some stupid effort to prove some point (like a child throwing and breaking something), does in fact spell the effective defeat of the System right here and right now.

Serious in that it can affect any manner of negative physical circumstances. Meaningless because all of its effort goes to no real or lasting avail. If we can remove ourselves from its "thought" and not react predictably or otherwise play into it as do these modern parents today who are at the mercy of their own "A.D.D." children, then we beat it right on the spot - notwithstanding some aggravation.

However, if we are in any way still wrapped up in a game of our own - a game of pretend or escape - then we're automatically down to the level of those parents, huffing and puffing out of sheer exasperation with the out-of-control child and we make fools of ourselves in that same way. Know the enemy, know the situation, know ourselves and assume the appropriate stance of detached superiority.

Specifically, in my own immediate circumstances, they're going all-out - blowing all pretense and exposing their hand - to separate me from my course. Not the course of a "private citizen" who manages to escape their focus but the course of one who's "on" to them and is turning others "on" to them. Nothing short of a war of thought, where it is all lost or won in the head. Never believe otherwise. They're real as long as we hold them as real and no longer than that. Like the allegorical vampire, they must feed on us for their life. They're dead in a dead game. "Dead in the Jews' money," again, as Manson would say. Naturally, they don't want that word out. They'd prefer it to be that they are like unto "the great and powerful Oz."

It's as simple as this: The clock ticks on their term of power. So long as I - or any one of us - never yield to their game-playing, regardless how intrusive, I - or we - become the automatic winner, not only at the end of the line but in this moment as well.

That's surety.

That's the diagnosis that has them already half-way beaten. For the remainder, it'll be left up to the effects of their own follies to bring them down.

Faggots and Maggots

by Robert Burns

It's impossible to admire or identify with Andrew Cunanan. Media reports keep saying to be on the lookout for a "White male" but photographs reveal clearly that Cunanan is not White. In fact, it came across the media that Cunanan is a Mexican. That plus being an admitted homosexual gigolo.

With credentials like those, it might appear superficially that Cunanan would be uptight and out of sight with the System. Well, certainly he was until he "stepped outside of Master's rules", to borrow from Joseph Tommasi. Nothing is more alarming or sensational to them than one of their own who gets out of line. They keep their wary sights upon us, those who by virtue of blood and spirit have never been and have no desire to be one of them.

This character was mildly of interest until he supposedly killed someone else I'd never previously heard of: Gianni Versace, some high roller in the so-called "fashion industry". All of a sudden, Cunanan was top network news. Certainly not that Cunanan is in the same camp as Charles Manson but the System reaction here is reminiscent of the panic on the one hand and the big crocodile tears on the other from the summer of 1969.

Now just as then the other super-cruds in the national life have been hiring extra security so they can go on with their own activities, etc. Rumors are flying that Cunanan is striking back as he possibly has contracted AIDS, that his "hit parade" will continue against "wealthy gay men", that he is concealing his identity in the disguise of a woman. So familiar, so poetic.

Anybody can go off at any time and start killing people. But it was like the Pope died or something when this Versace character was shot. So revealing of the media to present this to a public that properly ought not - like me - to have known or given a damn about this guy. It's like we should and, if we didn't or don't, we're less than human beings. Just like a great "hero" being killed in battle or something with national mourning following.

Why? What real and solid person would care or need a "Versace" type or what he represents? "Fashion industry" - notoriously fag-ridden, with woman-haters dictating women's clothing styles. Makes great sense. The obscene profits, the meaningless diversion. Rightfully as offensive to any decency as "Professional sports". The world where queers, dope, abortion, Jews, niggers, etc., all reign together, supreme. All wallowing in the money generated by the productive people who daily have trouble just making ends meet.

The nation rots while they cavort. Worse, they are supposed to be some sort of "ideal". Billions of dollars to what? Absolute degeneracy, the epitome of the ugliness of this society. Empty, sick, unnatural. The antithesis of life, health and purpose. "Vanity is all." Mortician's wax over the face of Death. Visions from Hell... or from Babylon.

Versace a "great man"? Why? The media even broadcast the suggestion that he was involved in laundering money for the Mafia. Hundreds of FBI on his case? The media gives away its game. Just as with the rotten and smelly crowd killed in August of 1969 - the "Beautiful People" - it's the same money, same dope, same fags, same Jews, same niggers and nigger-loving, unsavory causes. The same glamour, same glitz, same hype. It would be okay if it were you or me or our friends or families that were killed. No hundreds of FBI then. No headlines. No nothing.

There's no natural connection here. Except insofar as the real power in control wants to make one. We're expendable and they're not. We're the host and they're the parasite. Unfortunately however, they are in charge. And at moments like this, they let it show. Real White people - real people, period - should in no way identify with these types. Testament that the media is in the wrong hands when they assume, insinuate or demand otherwise.

One of their own goes wild and the whole media goes into shock and mourning. Only one wild joker goes over the top and look at the reaction. We have a maggot-ruled-and-infested society because no one moves to dislodge them. Maggots and money: The ultimate "consumers" and their element. Not long on hardiness or real guts. They buy their protection. No real beauty, no real production. Every bit of it at the expense of actual life.

Their grip over the government and media has infected the rest of the population with their own idea of "values" and "morals". Offering nothing better, they have captured the imaginations of the rest. Too many are borderline fags and would-be maggots themselves. All of them absorbed by looks, thrills and "image".

One is reminded of Belshazzar's Feast. The flaming handwriting appears there on the wall. First there came AIDS and that message was tossed off. Now one of their own has turned to attack them. Must hire more security and catch this guy. Let nothing interfere. The "cup of iniquity" has got to be close to overflowing. One might have imagined that point to have been passed some time ago but, evidently, there is yet some distance to go.

People never listen or learn.

When it does come - the final answer - it'll be upon them so suddenly, with such ferocity, there'll be no time, no chance to call out the media or the FBI. It'll be done for them all - together, all at once.

Enough will have been enough.

And, precisely as with AIDS and Cunanan, horrible though it may be, it will serve them right.

Keeping Grounded

by Robert Burns

29

Keeping grounded means not getting lost in theory, not "believing your own propaganda", not getting caught in an "Ivory Tower" world of fantasy. When reality comes to call, unless you have been on the right track, you run the risk of seeing all you've believed in collapse before your eyes. This is prime strategy for the professional pigs of the System.

Few things could be as real as the power that they wield. The meaning of organization can be summed up in the way they operate as the dominant "gang" in the land. There just isn't even a close runner-up worthy of mention. Money and misconception are their twin pillars. Doing one's "job", taking "orders", all to "make a living". And next to none are capable of fathoming the meaning of it or what's behind it. They only are caught up in it, they only serve to feed it.

We need to know - not suppose or assume - a number of basic things if we're to go on in the face of this with any hope of survival.

Despite personalities, any personal weaknesses - is the situation as we make it out to be and not the product of paranoia or some other delusion? Is it really evil that we see in control? Have we in the Movement had it accurately identified all these long decades? Are our predictions and projections now coming to pass? More to the point, with regard to any persecutions we may face, does a climax approach, is an end in sight?

I've long come to talk about End-Time, or at the very least, the end of this age. Is that in itself appropriate or have I split with reality? Could it be that we should best concern ourselves with the nuts-and-bolts issues regarding the daily workings of the society we find ourselves in rather than adopting a "throw the baby out with the bath water" mentality?

Keeping grounded, to me, is the ability to assume just such a totalistic stance and never depart from reason, logic or facts. Not raving, not flailing arms madly, not babbling, and certainly not in idealistic or philosophical rout. But in the most complete appreciation of the circumstances as they exist. As far-out as it does begin to sound, for the sane and sober individual there are the scientific "tests" to determine the validity of even the most dire and seemingly surreal conclusions.

Commander Rockwell wrote briefly of his dealings with conservative William F. Buckley during the 1950s. Buckley still has a television debate program which airs weekly and is heralded by classical baroque music which seems to announce that here is the ultimate expression of intellect and rationality. And so they calmly discuss the various aspects of the raging cancer that is devouring us alive. Buckley even spent an entire half hour with an equally witty and urbane homosexual who flagrantly detailed his pleasures and preferences - but from a "conservative" standpoint.

"End-Time" is neither responsible nor respectable. Inverted or introverted chatter is polite. But End-Time, supported by air-tight argument is dynamite and can ultimately move mountains as it quickly dispels the fog from some people's minds. If anything is inappropriate it is to treat the pattern that exists as though it is in any way "normal", "controllable" or, most of all, "permanent".

The poor but regular content of these jails... Never getting the big picture, largely because they haven't the capacity to do so. Unchanged since jails and prisons have first existed. I was roused to my feet during October of 1997 by a news flash which interrupted one of the inane "movies" they invariably stay glued to so that "Treasury Secretary Robert Rubin" could reassure the country that all was going to be well eventhough the stock market had just plummeted five hundred points. Throughout the previous two years, I had been becoming ever more chagrinned over all the rosy sunshine they had painted around their baby, the stock market.

My knowledge and, yes, my faith tells me the economic basis of the System must one day crack and fail. But when, where, how? In the meantime, we must wait and endure. This was but a tremor in anticipation of the "Big One" just as with the corresponding geological tremors. But at least the word of it made my whole day.

One prisoner - a gentleman by nature who was calmly upset over being removed from the needs of his family - said to me that he'd been considering investing a portion of his hard-earned money into the stock market. I hope I succeeded in talking him out of that. Investing in the same System that imprisons you? Desiring a share in it? Casting your lot with it? Banking on its continuation? Not good practically or morally.

Flat broke and disorganized. The hallmarks of those who are found outside of the Beast. To the credit side of any one of us is only our awareness - upon which true committment can be built - and perhaps our ability to communicate this same awareness to others.

Irresistable curiosity - even a sense of mischief - compelled me to casually drop mention of the stock market plunge to one of the officers there during a friendly, down-home, front porch "smoke break" where everyone is on a first-name basis. If this Satanic System wants to imprison me, then I would welcome the collapse of its economy. He responded that that mustn't be as it would result in widespread killing and anarchy. Yes, absolutely.

Then the worst snow storm of recent memory struck that same month - possibly as a result of "El Nino" - and practically shut that part of the state down. Another officer reflected upon their ill-preparedness and what a truly well-organized and determined group might be able to get away with using the weather emergency as cover. All with no prompting on my part.

Loyal friends, ordinary good citizens, to whom most of my pronouncements surely would seem "extremist", having received a long-delayed wake-up call as to reality and the nature of who and what's in charge as they saw and experienced it in recent action against myself, experiencing the lies and the threats personally, were at first bowled over but then, after regaining themselves, became angry. No longer quite as "extreme" as before was I then but simply nearer the actual mark as viewed through the relative increase in awareness which the System itself had just afforded them.

Then the gem. One high officer took pains to express his regret, sorrow and even shame at being forced to take part in the outrage then being perpetrated against me in the name of the "law". An insult to a genuine lawman. But the female "commissar" was in town and they were all reduced to puppets. Outrageous but not uncommon, he indicated. His bottom-line comment was that should trends continue as they are, he'd be forced to make a big, personal decision... That between his people and the state.

One more gem. The "commissar" - for that is the only proper term - was naturally fascinated by my faith as that was and is, after all, the only reason for the whole charade. Utterly and completely incapable of understanding, the very aspect of a Satanic, Babylonian harlot, she wondered aloud how I had managed the previous two-and-a-half years to have survived in prison. I truly wasn't expected to survive. How did I come through their "lion's den" unscathed?

The answer? An attitude and a reality which they have no comprehension of. They only know power for power's sake and whatever force it takes to maintain that - right down to the last full measure.

To ask such a question of one who has just survived their worst - and with the expectation of more to come - is to expose a terrible weakness on their part. To have created something that they themselves are obviously afraid of, yet to hypocritically use it to deal with spiritual opponents, only to see them emerge fresh and ready for more, and little knowing the breeding ground it represents for more of these same opponents is like a self-imposed death sentence.

Not as though we haven't seen it before.

Yet there's no way of doing something without doing it. No way of going through something without going through it. It's either do it or don't do it. I am - we are - up under it as it plays out. And it is playing out.

Do we consciously and willingly accept our part?

For now, knowing this provides a calmness and an assuredness that serves me well and which is having an effect on those around me. It also robs them of the impact which their calculated game-playing would surely otherwise have.

With such seriousness do these enemies move and operate, not realizing it is all a game. I - we - know what they don't know. Keeping grounded this way, we understand our own purpose. We know the outcome already.

They can't say as much for themselves.

Knowing What We Know by Robert Burns

33

To be part of the Movement - call it Racialist-Separatist or whatever - as we are about to reach the turn of the new century should mean more than holding a card or a title or wearing a uniform. In fact, it should be to the exclusion of such things. Circumstances have gone far enough already and will go further in the years ahead to compel the complete evolution of a general coming-out from amongst those things, anything, that rings or smacks of the dying System.

We all came out of the System in our beginnings as we had no choice where or how we were born. Everyone has his own story to tell as to why he veered from the course set for him by the unseen masters in charge of education and media, and despite the multi-cultural environment which surrounded him. Each one struck out in his own fashion, almost blindly. We all thought we could "do something" about a deplorable and sinking situation through political organization and activism. We all saw these efforts come to nothing even as our predictions were being fulfilled to the letter, and more.

A certain instinct - or whatever - leading to a certain awareness was and is the common thread which runs through this Movement, through all its levels, all its divisions. The realization that it's what's behind the scenes that counts, that it's not as it appears, that the "Good Guys" are not in control, that a happy ending is not what is awaiting. A certain contrariness that insists we call it exactly as it is no matter how that may offend the subscribers to the alien-inspired fantasy world of lies. And certainly, those who are thus drawn in remain the vast majority.

The result so far for us? We have the role in the media of playing the "Bad Guys" to the System's "Good Guys". We are the scapegoats for why all the idealism is only producing a stinking and rotten mess. "Racism" is the problem, they say. If it - and we - would only go away, things would be fine. We are the gnat on the elephant's flank. We know and will not forget that racism is what this country was founded upon. And of course it's always more comfortable for any ruling conspiracy if all opposition should be silenced or disappear. But would that cause an improvement? Would it turn the lies into truth or affect the ways in which they manifest themselves?

Within the fraternity of the Racialist-Separatist Movement, permeating the as yet formalized, politicized framework of "groups" and "organizations", we still endure as bad as ever the interminable disputes and bickerings. This or that person is an "agent" of the System, etc. Either that or someone just doesn't like the other person's emphasis, philosophy or approach. From that point on down to plain dishonesty and jealousy.

The awareness can be seen to falter, giving way to the common baseness which governs the daily affairs of those whom we disdain as - in the terminology of the Jews themselves - "shabbaz goyim", human cattle in the service of their would-be slaughterers.

No matter how nearer to climax or how polarized the situation becomes with the passing years, we still have to suffer the sight of our own traitors and sell-outs being trotted out by these same Jews to grovel and crawl and generally curse everything and everyone they formerly declared allegiance to. Here one has to stop and reflect and really assume that that individual's awareness never at any time was complete. Or that their motivations from the beginning were entirely inappropriate. Or that they always were total personality and character cripples. Weak, in other words.

We have to look at the pool of those for whom we supposedly stand. That is, the masses of Whites. The very essence of what allows the country to keep functioning at all. The productive White workers who are supporting a System that is killing their future - and doing it out of blindness, all for momentary, transitory "security". Wage slaves, tax slaves, voting cattle. Running furiously on the hamster wheel. Out of fear of the loss of their "status" within this they submit to blackmail. In exchange for being "left alone", they feed a blood enemy and sacrifice their children. Believing the lies, led by criminals. Incapable of thought or action. Indebted, disorganized, leaderless.

For us then it can be rough.

To cast one's lot with the System for pay or temporary advantage? A serf to a "job" which renders one as only another cog in the System's machinery? The "reward" for knuckling under and carrying on in ignorance, real or feigned? Peanuts. Carrying on as a coward trying to stay in or get back into the System's good graces? Total loss of nerve and utter lack of awareness. A physical and psychological rout. Helplessness and hopelessness. Like chaff before the storm. No matter how rough, seeing this as the alternative, how could any of us ever doubt or waver?

Knowing what we know, we realize that we will live in the truth while the rest perish with the lie. They today will race to escape the meaninglessness through materialism, diversionary recreation, whatever, and will do anything necessary to escape reality. The ultimate reality is that not only is this meaningless but that that by itself declares that its days are numbered. Those in "power": To be part of the System - large or small - is to be part of an enterprise of death. When it crashes and dies it will leave no legacy or heirs.

To be part of something like that is not for us. Better by far to be awake and on your feet. When we left the System, we left for good. We could never rat out the Movement any sooner than we could stop breathing. Not even for "convenience" sake could we ever pretend to be otherwise. "Look at how it wound up." I've been told that many times.

However, I'm aware enough to know that it hasn't "wound up" yet, not by a long shot. But my awareness also tells me that is IS coming to a great winding-up.

I didn't wind it up then, or now, or ever. Not even if killed. That's what is meant by being part of the Movement, part of something greater, something in truth that is going to go on forever. The System of lies glorifies itself as long as it continues to survive by sucking the blood of its unsuspecting slaves. It is this arrangement which cannot survive for long. Once it dies, no one will lament or memorialize it the way some have done for the Confederate Cause or for the Third Reich - both of them brief flickers of the one same truth that were overpowered by the same, common lie as it was still gaining strength.

Knowing what we know, how could we ever turn away? Perhaps that is what is entailed in being Aryan. The capacity, the awareness and then the perfect willingness to follow that in spite of anything and everything. To seek some place in the System, a job, a title, a paycheck, to get over on others, to pad an ego, to climb a ladder, to serve a master - all as part of a world based on a delicately balanced illusion? Or to be a part of something encompassing the whole universe and all of time?

The only end will be the end of this System. The only ones to wind it up will be those serving the System. Then what will all the power and prestige have meant? Idiots and babblers talk about a "Revelation". In the simplest terms of logic, what else could any true revelation be than the mask being ripped off of a prevailing, dominant lie? It does not mean the confirmation of falsehood as the media-minded must surely suppose. This is the essence of awareness.

The lie has conquered all, consumed all, and now, like a cancer, it will consume itself and die.

You're either in it or you're not. Knowing that, one then is able to know whose side he is actually on as well as exactly who and what his enemy really is. Numbers be damned. Mockery be damned. Persecution be damned. Concepts like "punishment" and "reward" be damned. There can be no meaning, no cause, no glory, no survival in serving a lie. Only death. Dead in a dead pursuit. Worse than death, imagine suddenly coming to confront the reality that everything you've ever believed or worshipped has been false and that you've lived for nothing. That will not be our fate.

Hardships are nothing. Reality and purpose are everything. Of the billions of the Earth, over ninety percent - the non-Whites - may be immediately written off. Of the remaining eight percent which nominally are White, those in possession of this kind of awareness can be easily numbered - loosely defined as the Movement. The final rebuke to the value of great numbers and temporal power. The power of illusion. Even a fool can see the fabric of the illusion straining and about to pull apart. Most fear anarchy and will stay with the System because of this fear. To no avail.

But first will come dictatorship, police state, etc., which we effectively are in now.

Confrontation by reality without awareness spells unimaginable terror and panic. No more escape. Wondering why as your lights go out. That's what awaits them. Picture the look on their faces at the moment their "faith" is shattered, that of "don't think, don't talk, don't rock the boat and the System will take care of everything".

What we know must be its own reward. It has to be its own vindication as well as its own revenge. We see and know that the System is dying and will be replaced. How fast? We shall see. It doesn't matter.

Just that we know and are where we belong.

Lies, Dictatorship & Relevance

by Robert Burns

37

At the very dead bottom there are two things which are the root cause of every problem we face. They are: That we have allowed "strangers" to assume dominance over us in our own land; And we allow great masses of "strangers" to inhabit this land with us, as part of the society. Not shifting blame or scapegoating, I state carefully that this is what we - the Whites - have allowed to happen and that it is we who continue to tolerate it even as its cumulative effects threaten to destroy us.

Anyone may label it any way they choose if I go the next step and identify the first group of strangers as Jews and the second group as all non-White racial types. Bring on all the knee-jerk, pre-programmed, name-calling reaction that exists in the world. It does not represent argument, pointing out error or introducing fresh information. If there is another explanation, I'm the first person who wants to hear it.

Easy it is to understand why these groups desire to be here, doing what they do: This has been the new "Land of Milk and Honey" and it's natural for them to want to muscle in on a sweet deal and to hitch a free ride. This has been going on to one degree or another for at least the past hundred years. And for the same period there have been those who have been sounding a warning over it. They've been largely ignored and everywhere ridiculed. Only just now has it gotten to where it's not the laughing matter it may once have seemed.

Lies don't work. At least not forever. How sweet it was until recent years. It's still sweet for those sitting at the top but it's not so sweet anymore for the actual hosts, those whose ancestors created the country, generated the wealth and whose descendants today maintain whatever's left and put up with the effects of alien domination and a multi-cultural, multi-racial society. The numbers say it all: By the middle of the next century, Whites will no longer be the majority. So if you think it's bad now, just hold your breath.

Exactly what lies? The lie that there is no alien conspiracy in control of this country (and all other "developed" - White - countries) and the lie that there exists anything like "racial equality". Everything proceeds upon these twin pillars of falsehood: That this is a "free democracy" and that "all men are created equal." The reality is that this is an alien, Jewish dictatorship and that a flood of inferior, colored humanity is fast turning this into a Third World country. All thoughts, statements and, most especially, actions going toward this effect have now in principle if not in fact been branded as "criminal" by the regime.

Naturally. Of course. Lies govern. Personal fortunes are dependent on the continuation of this arrangement. Their power allows them to do this. The mounting, degenerative results of this requires them to move to utterly silence, discredit and eliminate their opposition eventhough that opposition - we of the Racial Separatist Movement - holds no authority or influence whatsoever. The natives are getting restless and if just for a moment our message of the truth manages to catch their ears, the game will be up.

The "tangled web" of deceit. Their campaigns to, first, ever more deeply entrench their own power and, second, to use it to push for more racial integration are yielding their social consequences now in an unmistakable, inescapable way. The piper is demanding his payment. But a lie cannot admit itself to be a lie, neither can it adopt a remedial course of truth and reality lest it at the same stroke abdicate and call it quits. (That is unless one should expect to see a repeat of what took place in the Soviet Union when that facet of the conspiracy actually did read the handwriting on the wall and took a step backward in hopes of forestalling a violent explosion.)

Here we have a large number of those in possession of not just the full truth of the matter but of an immense arsenal of personal arms. There's no "backing out" of this one. It's dig deeper or die. (Or BOTH as this is all just a game of buying time.) Lies do not profit, not really. They followed their blueprint as set forth in the "Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion" to the very letter and their efforts have been crowned with total "success". But it has been the Midas Touch in reverse. They've insinuated themselves into control of the land where "the streets were paved with gold" and now those same streets are running with excrement.

From an insane goal to a dire necessity, they must not only stay in control of a government made up of traitors, renegades and sell-outs, they must keep the population tickled and appeased in order for even that to go on. Like the old story of riding the tiger, tricky enough to get on but impossible to get down off of. The key, as always, to maintaining this lie rests with the manipulation of the stupid masses of Whites. For it is only they who "pay the rent".

So the butcher leads the bull around by the tiny ring in his nose. The alien media which whips up every thought most of these people ever have in their heads; The alien economy which can chew them up individually and spit them out; The alien government which poses as "their leaders" but which sells them down the river at each turn; And the alien-controlled police and military, always the final resort of any dictatorship. In short, the System. The same System these people pay taxes to and vote for.

The situation is run-away. Surely the conspirators face a life-or-death position themselves but the population that has participated in this so far through their apathy and cowardice have a deadly price they will have to pay. Just as crime experts say, "Don't get in the car with the hijacker." If you do, he will remove you to a place where your chances of survival in one piece are far less advantageous. To have woken up and thrown off this parasitic element in the 1930s, 40s, 50s or 60s would have been a lot less costly than to, instead, ride with it all the way out to the end of the line. Maybe you can guess what anarchy and race war will be like.

But "dictatorship"? Surely not, you say. This doesn't fit the traditional image of the term given to us by the media. Where's the "Stalin" or the "Mao"? Not good old, smiling, dumb-ass Bill. Not all those smiling Jews he has in his cabinet. Best remember that Orwell's "1984" came and went a long time ago. They haven't brought it this far by being anything less than the masters of subtlety. It's the force exercised by a ruling CLIQUE which stands just behind the scenes. Just as much as that, it's the TERROR wielded by an equally tyrannical and intolerant philosophy. It doesn't have a face.

While they sink into hell, as their children's and grandchildren's world and future is being lost, they excuse and rationalize inaction by engaging in "dialogue" and "debate", relying upon "redress" and the "ballot box". They'll keep running like this until their backs are against the wall. Carefully note that in this land of "freedom of speech and expression" any bit of nonsense may be addressed except the two I opened this piece with. Regarding these, there are no two sides and no discussion is permitted. Everything must proceed on those two as a given, sent divinely from God, as it were. The essence of dictatorship.

All effort therefore goes toward, one, denying the source of the problems and, two, masking the results. Alien dominance, multi-culturalism, multi-racialism and their consequences upon any civilization that accepts them. Everything within the framework of that. The true identity of an effective coup d'etat which has as its fingerprints everything from the Federal Reserve Act to the Civil Rights Act. The assumption that this is the way it "should" and "must" be. Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln wouldn't agree. But they are unable to speak. The media speaks for them.

All debate skips ahead, past these fundamental elements which are accepted as done, as sacrosanct. Great intellects wring their hands over how to deal with the results which are only logical, only predictable. Great agencies, programs and bureaus are established to throw money at the symptoms, to "educate" the public to accommodate the increasing sickness, "laws" are passed to attempt to make "Never-Never Land" a reality. But what more and more average people are coming to see is that it is getting worse, becoming intolerable, faster all the time.

Three things are occurring now simultaneously: Common people are beginning to wake up from the sheer pain and are resorting to desperate acts of violence against the government; The government, for its part, is quickly metamorphosing into a naked police state; And as stage and backdrop for it all, the society itself is visibly, from year to year, going more colored and becoming more untenable, guaranteeing that the natural climax shall not be denied.

This present alien order will pull out all stops to maintain itself in power. It's agents do this for position and wealth. Under this System, everything rots. It is obviously imperative that it should fall - the sooner the better.

As for us, those who are "crazy", "dangerous", "haters" or "bigots" for telling it as it is, we remain irrelevant for having no power, no constituency. All state and corporate power rests in the hands of those who ignore and suppress truth, all in the name of profit. Power is theirs. Full relevance? Suppressing truth does not stop its course. Ignoring it does not prevent its enemies from being shattered by it in the end. How relevant is the business, are the affairs of something that is dying, a game gone rotten that can't be fixed?

Those within the truth are dispossessed but they also are in no way responsible for the mess or what is about to befall it. When the edifice of lies crashes, who will be the inheritors of any future there may be other than the keepers of the truth?

The end of one age and the start of another.

Wouldn't It Be Lovely?

by Robert Burns

41

With apologies to Lerner and Loewe, this very sentiment refuses to go away even within the supposedly hard-bitten Separatist Movement. Eliza Doolittle could afford to fantasize over the impossible or unlikely but we, with lives, liberties and destinies at stake, cannot.

It still comes up with regularity: How this or that pressing national issue might be, could be or should be addressed "if only sanity and honesty could be applied." "If only" the rulers would "wake up." "If only" our side could manage to enlist the support of the people. "If only..."

This attitude does justice to nothing. Not to ourselves, as it places us yet within the grid of the biggest scam ever perpetrated. Not to the situation itself, as it denies the epoch-making singularity of these circumstances. And not to the enemy, because it supposes he may be "reasonable" or "negotiable" rather than the Weltfeind that he is.

It is an overall failure to grasp the reality of it.

All we can do for ourselves is to penetrate through the fog of lies, all the way to full awareness. Until that's done, we're no good to ourselves or to anyone else. Until then, it's all games. And games will continue to absorb our thoughts and consume our actions, amounting to nothing. The only possible results: Futility and tragedy.

Why should this be? Simply because, upon sober investigation, this situation can be seen as a one-way ride out. This is a rigidly managed confusion. It is a shell-game on a grand scale. To believe or act otherwise is to allow yourself to be made a fool of. The hardest thing one will ever do is to fully realize this and, knowing it, take himself all the way out of that thought.

Now you've entered reality.

Some force, some clique, some conspiracy was and is driven by the conviction that the world and all its peoples would best be under its control. To affect this - minus the knowledge or consent of these same people - was required by definition and by necessity a machinery of lies to be set in motion. Lies not only in theory but in practice as well. It's wrong, it's evil, it's impossible - but it's supported by state power, backed and enforced by all the power in the world.

This is not a pretty picture. But if you can see and recognize the difference between truth and lies and if you find yourself capable of taking your place solidly on the side of truth, then the outcome, the light at the end of the tunnel, represents all the justification and reward that any realistic and serious person ever could hope for.

"Wouldn't it be lovely?" What, to perpetuate a twilight world, part truth, part lie, but where lies dominate? Was it more comfortable back a certain length of time when the "balance" of truth and lies seemed to be more "equitable"? A time when you might have felt more comfortable with it? Is that your desire? Is it instead that you really fear the unknown: A world without lies?

A bargain, a compromise, an accommodation. With the Devil? An "adjustment" of some kind and you'd be perfectly willing to go on existing under his control? Or have you never seen it in these terms? Don't believe in a Devil? Do you believe in lies? How about the naked force that was used to make these lies the "law of the land"? That required a lot of will and a lot of consciousness to make happen. From where did this emanate?

It's a two-edged sword. First, this is part of an agenda. It is not now and never has been subject to discussion or debate. They are going to get it there just as fast as they are able within the limitations of how swiftly they can move without triggering a general waking-up. Lies, stealth and deceit. The old confidence game. The strategy is called "gradualism". Your own willingness to "cooperate" was what made it possible in the beginning and it is what permits it to go on in the present.

Second - and this is the good news - does anyone seriously suppose that anything or anyone has it within their power to either turn back the clock on this or to stop it in its tracks, to actually maintain this status quo? Absolutely not. There is a climax approaching and it approaches with increasing speed and ferocity as its day draws closer.

There are two unmistakable principles at work here which are certain: This is no accident. The old Movement, in all its funkiness, established in exhaustive, minute detail the exactitude of the conspiracy and catalogued painstakingly the critical steps at which it invariably outwitted and outmaneuvered each of its victims and opponents. No mistake.

At the same time, even a triumphant lie can only advance in the manner a cancer advances: Feeding upon healthy tissue or, in this case, what is left of a healthy society as it was established originally in truth. There is nothing which demands faith there. When the victim, the host, dies, so does the invading parasite. Simple, immutable. Representing truth, truth representing God - or what have you - this plain fact is ultimately dominant.

And we see the dilemma today as it rends the Satanic order, even as it stands at the threshold of its own total victory just as a cancer might have its victim totally consumed, like a helpless rag doll in the maws of Death itself. There is a higher power and its name is absolute justice.

Now the situation assumes contradictory, overlapping aspects. The moves on the part of the power, the System, the only entity which can exert state authority - are they designed more to advance and entrench the conspiracy and to further its policies, or are they more and more becoming reactions out of blind necessity to attempt to preserve the host organism whose condition is slipping toward "Code Blue"?

Who would charge that I am imagining this?

And what about ourselves?

As the lies can only turn inward now to consume themselves, Satan's agents will cast madly about for scapegoats upon which to place the blame. We - with no power or influence whatsoever - who only bear the truth, who have only been able to utter "I told you so." It's already there. It's all our fault. We are the "evil ones" who queered the Utopian dream by not joining it as did all the rest.

We hold the mirror up to the vampire. We are the mirror. And vampires try to smash every mirror they encounter. The word for this in action in human, political and social terms is persecution.

I keep referring to the Book of Revelation. Not opinion, not a matter of interpretation, not out of context. Satan's System - the Whore of Babylon - the Beast - will, out of pride or desperation, drop its "democratic-parliamentary" mask and move to go after "the faithful", gloves off and with both feet. And that doesn't describe the masses of deluded dupes filling these Satanic-dominated churches.

Climax.

No one can run, no one can hide. Not us, not the System.

To cast about wishing for some way to halt or slow this down? That is properly the task of the System as only the System could possibly profit by such a delay in the inevitable.

By engaging in a folly of this type, you rob yourself of the only source of strength you'll have when the other shoe drops. Ruin, prison, death. But will you be among those other saints above whose tomb was written, Und Ihr Habt Doch Gesiegt? (And yet you have been victorious.)

Only if you see all this now and still accept it.

"Our Gang" Comedies

by Robert Burns

According to professional gang task forces attached to these various jails, prisons and police forces, the merest handful of people may constitute a "group" or a "gang".

"Where two or three people meet together in my name, I am there with them." Thus spoke the greatest "O.G." (original gang member) of all as quoted in St. Matthew, Chapter 18, Verse 20.

Blasphemy? It was on a charge of blasphemy that those powers in control at that time murdered Jesus. (All legalistically carried out, of course.)

Today they're seeing "gangs" everywhere, under every rock, concealed in every shadow. They - the power - can understand nothing apart from their own control. They can't even see that it is a game of control for the sake of control alone. We have to assume that, were they at least able to see that much, they mightn't be involved in what they're doing. To go even further, we must assume that they are possessed of some kind of justification for what they do, however hollow and wrong it may be.

Everyone - without exception - does what is right in his own eyes. So why the conflict? When any situation arrives at "power for its own sake", you may be certain that the element of truth has fled already long ago. Confusion reigns, held together by force in the hands of those who maintain a vested interest in the status quo due to their larger-than-average share of the material wealth and/or perceived prestige. No judgment, no discretion. Only that kind of ability to react as might be seen in a reptile sunning itself on a rock.

This rather defines a condition of barbarism. Always the last stage, the final refuge.

A deplorable situation can be expected to produce its own kind of reaction. Actually there will be different reactions from different people who have divergent interests. No one is really required to know or understand why it is they do what they are doing; Only that something basic is motivating them to react. This is a kind of truth in itself. Rather like a decaying corpse being consumed by vermin and scavengers. One more law of nature.

And here is the basis of what generally enters the mind whenever the term "gang" is mentioned today. Violent, criminal, predatory, colored gangs of so-called "youths". The effective death of the old, original Anglo-Saxon order. The collapse of all its values, of its sense of identity, its cohesion, its integrity and even its instinct for self-preservation. Its gradual replacement by a multi-racial, multi-cultural corporate state - thoroughly hypocritical and alien to the interests of one and all. Those not "in" on this, who cannot see the "beauty" of it, may be expected to take it upon themselves to reinvent some manner of organic society structure.

By definition, this will be well outside what is sanctioned by the State and it most certainly will include more than one individual. A "gang".

There you have it. Were it not for the iniquities inherent in the parent body and were it not for its own fundamental social and moral bankruptcy, such phenomena could not exist in the first instance.

No healthy and viable society which is in line with the truth will ever have within its own boundaries large alien ethnic minorities. Then, after things have gone from unhealthy to downright diseased, the power at the top will move to encourage amalgamation - or "integration" - of the various elements in hope of producing and preserving an ideal slave state. Once on that track, all truth must be sacrificed in order to pave the way for the heralding of an impossible situation dedicated to and based solidly upon the lie.

It were as if a cancer within a body had a mind of its own and was able to short-circuit and by-pass the brain. Now the spread of the disease can assume number one priority, ahead of even building flesh and bone. Little by little, healthy tissue is overcome and replaced by carcinoma. The "mind" of the disease tells the infected host that it is only "fair" to share some room and some sustenance, to "give a little". Tolerance. To resist the spread of the disease is to be intolerant, of course. One by one, the major organs shut down. Artificial life-support must be introduced. Finally, the complete "victory" of the disease: Death.

What an idealistic thing. Not happy? Try asking for your money back.

What about groups of Whites who may communicate their abhorrence of this situation to one another or who may desire to come together in fraternity for the purpose of White fellowship? Immediately to the mind of the power, more "gangs". That there exists a gulf of difference as wide as that of night and day is not recognized. Only that here are more of those who do not share in the sick dream of the triumph of the disease.

At the bottom, these White "gangs" represent the majority - at least for the present - and thereby, at least for anyone astute, tell the actual tale of what's really going on here. Again, it is that everyone is dispossessed by an alien conspiracy at the very top but no one more so than the Whites who created the nation.

The power senses that these White groups represent a spirit diametrically opposed to its own in both purpose and philosophy while the colored gangs actually reflect their program and presage exactly what their "world of the future" will be like. Therefore, quite naturally, the Whites receive a much larger and brighter "red light" attached to their case file.

No health, no truth, no viability. Only State power which they have usurped gradually, over the heads of the people. Representing nothing but itself. Dedicated only to entrenching and extending its own control. More lately however concerned with keeping the rotten pieces from falling away in great chunks. Repression is its game. Paranoia is its hallmark.

Imagine if you can: You hold all the power, all the wealth, all the media. And yet your world is rapidly turning into a dirty and violent madhouse, threatening to implode. Caught up in your own lies, you cannot admit to any error but must instead go on a witch hunt, looking for scapegoats. Who else than those who directly oppose you by pointing out your lie (which you, by the way, hold up as the sacred truth)?

If no one stood forth to condemn the lie, to accuse the perpetrators, then surely - through sheer default - lie would become truth, all-dominant. That seems to be their idea of it. And that presumption sets the course for each of their measures toward silencing their opposition. However, they effectively have it now the way they want it and still it does no good. "Things which do not profit." "Cisterns which hold no water." That's how the Bible describes it. Under whatever guise, lies can only produce more of their own kind and that can include nothing positive. Simply the way it works.

All of the power and force in the world is ultimately to no avail when harnessed to this purpose, when based on such a foundation.

And it is this they can't understand. It is this which is driving them frantic, which will finally make them go mad.

It's only fitting.

Here is the nature of the fury and the panic which led to the crucifixion of Jesus. One more rabble-rousing leader of one more gang. It is what lay behind the increasingly high-handed and blatantly unconstitutional harassment, suppression and persecution of our own Racial Separatist (keeping the Holy Seed holy) groups today. Same truth, same confusion, same rotten power structure. Same dynamics at work. Same blindness, same arrogance on their part.

Violence, brutality and illegality on the part of the enemy which holds the seats of government? Another last resort. The unaware see these symptoms and grumble over them. We see them instead as the earliest buds which as surely as anything announce the onset of springtime, just as the Bible said that they would. While no man may know the exact hour, the signs are unmistakable nonetheless.

The certainty of physics remains on our side. The enemy searches for "gangs" as part of its totally inappropriate response to this mess of its own making. They cannot possibly win; We cannot possibly lose.

The People Versus the Power

by Robert Burns

I was re-arrested on a parole hold after three weeks of freedom on October 17th, 1997. Because my reputation as a Separatist was widely known throughout that rural area, the sheriff, in whose tiny jail I was at first taken to spend the next thirty days, was more than anxious about my presence. He basically had no "segregation" unit and the ten prisoners he already had there in his eight-bunk jail all were Mexicans.

He wasn't as concerned for my safety as he was over the fact that, should any violence happen, it would be "his ass" that would have to come in and stop it. I assured him that there'd be no trouble. Yet - eventhough there was no trouble - some of my in-coming mail, that of a political nature, had him on the terrors nonetheless.

Toward the end of my stay there I noticed the handful of deputies he had were wearing black tape across their badges - a sign of a slain officer somewhere nearby. I asked what it was about and they pretended not to know. Sadly, in there it was all sports or some other garbage on television and seldom any news. But the sheriff was prompted to have me moved to a larger facility a hundred miles away in the next large city as he said he couldn't handle it any longer.

Handle what?

Soon after I was assigned a cell in the much newer and bigger jail - dressed out in "high risk" reds and back in Ad Seg - I picked up a copy of that town's newspaper and saw that it had been Skinheads in the state capital who'd been shooting police as well as others. It all came clear to me. Those police had taken busses and barricaded their headquarters with them. Those where I had been got rid of me like a hot rock. The new jail I'd just arrived at was giving me the "maximum" treatment.

Undoubtedly, it utterly shocked that small town sheriff when, to his relief, the parole authority came to transport me and every man in his jail with me - the number now having grown, with approximately half of them White and the other half Mexican - lined up to shake my hand as I left. I'd been busy the past month. Radicalizing and introducing the concept of Separatism. What Mexican wouldn't be receptive to the idea of the U.S. Southwest reverting back to Mexico?

That plus the fact that I made it plain that each of them had a kangaroo court waiting to railroad them into the "Gulag Archipelago" because a jury of their peers was out of the question in a society such as this one. Once it began to happen just that way, I had them hooked. East Side had to stop fighting West Side and come to know their one, true enemy: The System itself. Soon after I'd gone, I read that two of them had escaped that jail. I had sat many mornings beside the very window they escaped through and composed some of these very articles. I knew the bars were rigged for escape but chose not to take the opportunity for myself.

The Whites also I introduced to the criminality of the System which was supposed to be "theirs". All the Whites had arrived suddenly as part of a drug sweep made possibly by one or two local rats. Problem was, many of those now facing years in prison for cocaine had sold drugs to or done drugs with the sentencing judges. Our own Separatism? The Northwestern states plus part of Canada for an Aryan Republic, free of these corrupt bastards here in power at present.

But it was in the newer, bigger jail that I received the most heartening sign. The violence involving the Skinheads was front-page for several days and it had one and all - White and Mexican - fully enthusiastic. "Long overdue." "High time." And, "What they deserve." Coming together now: The people against the power. Coloreds and average Whites cheering Skinheads who were killing police. A glimpse of the future.

Two important considerations: One, a person might say, "Sure, among jailbirds but not among the general population." Does being ignorant or complacent either deny a problem exists or make it go away? Or, instead, is it what permits it to go on? Those of us who have known system oppression and persecution realize this is no more than a Communist dictatorship which hides behind the Constitution. Ignore it as hard as you like - it nonetheless is what governs you.

Secondly, one older man commented words to the effect that these shootings should convince them that people won't take this forever and that they need to "pull their horns in."

While admiring his sentiment, I nevertheless had to point out his fundamental error. They won't pull their horns in and neither do we want them to.

True revolutionaries don't want "adjustment", don't want things to back off. Least of all do we want "compromise" with this power. For the nature of the Beast is "all or nothing at all." No co-existence. What right-minded individual would content himself to go on living under a regime he knows is alien and hostile to the interests of the common folk? The "lesser or two evils" kind of mentality which made this mess possible is something unknown to the revolutionary mind.

Accommodation with a mortal enemy whose hands are on state authority? But perhaps they don't yet see it in that clarity. That's part of my job. They'll catch up, they are catching up. One day it will dawn over them. The power itself will convince them of it.

For just as the Beast System cannot "pull in its horns", neither can we tolerate the existence of an alien power over ourselves. Again and again, I stress the dynamics of how this climax will come about, why it is inevitable:

This conspiracy which took hold of the workings of this country a century ago holds an insane goal or "ideal". With an initiated "elite" at the top, a homogenized population below. No "democracy". A permanent ruling class made up of racial Jews or the other sell-outs who can convince them of their utter fealty. Only these types do you get the chance to "vote for". And these hold seventy percent of the national wealth - that is, about three percent of the population.

Racial integration has been the cornerstone policy for all of this century. "Block-busting", "busing", multi-racialism and multi-culturalism. Ideally, mixed marriages to wipe out distinct and individual racial types and give way to a non-descript, brown mass. The perfect slave population - with no past, no present and no future. In other words, no identity. For this nightmarish plan for hell on earth, they invoke words like "freedom", "love" and "equality".

Well, they succeeded in seizing all power for themselves. Not only that but all media, all finance, everything. And, by this action, their policies have everywhere been put into implementation - over the protests of the people themselves in most instances. A gradual beating down of resistance and morale via their ever-present police and media have seen it all pushed through, rough-shod.

Problem for them is - exactly as with the Marxism it borrows from - it doesn't work. Hell is breaking loose as the destroyed society teeters closer to collapse, having had all its natural moorings ripped out from under it by these same criminals in the name of creating their own "Utopia".

Anarchy on the one hand and dictatorship on the other. Unfortunately for them, 100% of all power is as much as they or anyone can have. Should that prove insufficient - well then, I'm afraid the handwriting must then be on the wall for that power or that regime.

They can be expected to ride it all the way down with a police and a prison state. By these last-ditch and extreme measures they will awaken more and more who are as yet asleep and uncommitted to the struggle. But in the end the monster will go over the edge to its final destruction and the rest of us may be able to work out our differences as human beings - free people - and not mere ciphers for the use and profit of a criminal System.

Maybe some justice can then be had.

A Thirty-Year Search Complete by Robert Burns

It's nice to discover that God is on your side and vice versa, and has been all along despite a separation due to a lack of awareness. One has to consider and to hope that this discovery and realization comes as the logical, inevitable result of a tireless, unceasing search through territory of the mind shut off, for all practical purposes, to most everyone not part of the radically marginal extreme.

To hold this awareness puts you there. To not be there means never to hold it.

For the skeptics, of which I'll always be one, it should begin with the definitions of what God is: There are several, all of which are equally valid. The God of Genesis, who "created heaven and earth", who "made man in his own image", etc., is or can be known to be inter-galactic colonizers who first arrived here half a million years ago and did their magic by means of which we are only now beginning to reawaken to involving genetic engineering and the role of DNA. A war in space (or "heaven") caused a breach between God and Man and we have been cast on our own here ever since, on a planet full of very earthly and mortal aliens, and sinking steadily.

If that sounds weird or cracked, I'm sorry. But the evidence is there aplenty and it all at the very least makes perfect sense. In line with this again, we are only just now coming back around to it on our own, technologically. One more "meeting", one more "full circle".

What then is in the Bible? One more episode in the life of one more branch of the Aryans. A broader-than-usual span of time, from about 4,000 B.C. to the time of Christ. It's about as non-instructive to focus exclusively upon that as it would be to do the same with the incredibly short time of Adolf Hitler and the Third Reich period in Germany. Crucial however it is to know that both stories are parallels, earlier and later chapters in the same saga of the same people. The Biblical era was neither the beginning nor the end of it. So it was also with the Third Reich.

But... one thing not to miss is the compression of time involved in the playing out of the Third Reich tale as opposed to the several millennia involved in that of the Bible. Here is a major clue.

History in between is all a part of the same story. Critical links? In the Bible, the Jews make their initial historic appearance, having evolved from among the tribes that God had commanded Israel - the Anglo-Saxon Aryans - to destroy for their own sake, and into "Edom" or "Idumea" as a generic whole and finally into "Jews". Much later, off the pages of the Bible, they incorporate their cousins to the north, the Khazars, also as "Jews". Thousands of years later, after the scene has shifted to Europe and all the players have donned new identities, Biblical prophecy reaches critical mass as World Jewry closes the lid on global control at the conclusion of World War Two, after Ephraim (England) and Judah (Germany) have warred against each other yet another time.

Now all of earth is one, great "Babylon", with the Tribes of Israel - literally the Aryan Nations - each captive within the boundaries of these respective corporate states, all representing only branch offices of the one "New World Order", the Biblical "Beast System", and governed by their own, home-grown Judas-goats, each one of those in turn owned and operated by Jews - clearly identified by both the Bible and Mein Kampf as the physical and spiritual offspring of Satan.

The struggle between God and Satan: The survival of the Holy Seed against absorption into the far vaster genetic pool of Satan's seed.

The other definitions of God? Truth, awareness, physics, biology, geometry, etc. Health, well-being, purity. Unity, strength, freedom. The other physical identity of God? The unpolluted, unblemished genes in our blood and all the traits which they carry, imparted to us by God himself. To make it to "heaven", to rejoin the Father? Breaking the bonds of confusion and throwing off alien domination in order to be able to unfetter the course which those very genes would dictate to us and follow it to its natural conclusion - that of Nietzsche's "Superman".

Salvation? Redemption? "Men do not go to ruin through lost wars." So spoke Adolf Hitler. "No one not having originated in heaven has any chance of returning to heaven." The words of Jesus of Nazareth. Racial integrity. Where the blood remains pure, anything can be possible. Where a genetic dark night has descended, all is lost and without hope. The definition of hell? Simply the grave, death, no future, no destiny.

Such is how the simple and basic truth can be mythologized into something meaningless and false. In short... "religion".

Striking historical corollaries aside, the one thing I have striven to move toward all this time has been the "why". Why, despite our possessing the truth and the right, does no one seem to care or give a damn? The unbroken failure of these groups, the endless sacrifice seemingly to no avail. All while we can and do issue forth in our tiny and struggling publications with, "I told you so!", decade after decade. Why, in short, can't we achieve what Hitler achieved?

That answer is to be found in the words of the prophets of the Bible, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, etc. The truth has fled. It has fled the leaders, the scholars and the priests of the people. High and low, this people has bought into the Satanic System and the truth is simply unprofitable and with money and profit being the actual god here, truth itself has become anathema. As Hitler certainly knew, one requires more than just a few good men in order to be able to affect anything serious.

Once the truth has flown, once it has departed. So simple yet we in our rigidly conventional way have analyzed and politicized it into something we know very well and yet cannot understand. What we may be sure of by our efforts and experiences is that it all has been no accident, that it has been very careful and deliberate, this fall of our people. And we know the culprit. This is real, not a dream. Still, we have been overlooking a critical aspect to it.

The remnant which is mentioned in the Bible. That's us. The prophets, charged with telling it as it is whether anyone chooses to hear it or not. That's us too. Without us - exactly as said in the Bible - the whole thing might end just as did Sodom and Gomorrah. But for us.

God is watching, literally. Or, if that's too much for you to swallow, the laws of nature and of physics have not been and will not be nullified. Satan's game in running the world is exactly as with the man who was so determined to defy the law of gravity that he jumped off a high rise building... and got away with it for a little while. A little while? Recall what I said about the time becoming so tightly compressed? So much is happening now within so little time. At the end of it, truth is waiting to reclaim.

Blindness. People can see the moment they're in but not the progression it stands as only a part of. Therefore, they're lost. To them everything is frozen, nothing flows together. Comparisons can't be accurately made, lessons can't be taken, cycles can't be avoided. How could it be otherwise when people don't even know who or what they are? And how could that be otherwise with an eternal blood enemy in control of every working of government and media, when it directs every action and implants every thought? As a people, they have forgotten. As a mass of "individuals", they never knew. As mere "consumers", they neither care nor will they be allowed to find out. And we can't reach them. Who are we anyway, after all? Poor losers. The mighty, the wealthy, the "beautiful people", those to be emulated and envied all are partakers of the rewards which Satan can give.

All of it very real, very conscious, very deliberate. Certainly some kind of "faith" ought to be able to find its "rock" in just that much which is beyond all doubt.

That which is "ungodly". Shame and abomination. It's been observed that these millions who call themselves "Christian" and who do still nominally sit in control of things are in plain, working practicality not Christians but Hindus, worshipping the "strange god" of tolerance and love for the "stranger" in their midst, something which God forbade. But you can never tell them that. Never. For the truth has flown from them. And this includes some good people, people that any society must have if it is to go on and survive. And so enters our own, old argument against the philosophy of the Church: What good is being "good" if it only goes to serve a destructive, suicidal end?

You only need to "tolerate" that which is alien to you - the irritating, the poisonous, the deadly. All in the name of "freedom" and "fair play". But all of it directly against the Word of God, contrary to the laws of physics, in defiance of the very law of the jungle. If you tolerate the ungodly amongst you, guess what: You're becoming it! And as it gradually takes you over more completely - precisely like a cancer - guess what again: Abomination is no longer abomination and there no longer is any shame. That's universal "love" and its result.

Do you see it?

The god of these people is a god of "love", as many will rush to tell you. "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." But who understands the meaning of that commandment? And God's name? YHWH, I Am That I Am, I Will Be What I Will Be, There Only Is What There Is. That which was, which is and which always will be. Truth, physics, biology, etc. Defy that and be destroyed. Perhaps not immediately but ultimately and certainly.

From that there is no coming back. There is only going forward, through it. For myself, the end of the search represents the opposite end of a common spectrum. I've got enough solidly in hand to make a logical and informed projection. Not really a stretch of "faith" but only a matter of "the other shoe dropping". The compliment to the reality we, as Movement veterans, are aware of with absolute certainty: That this is no accident, that it is real and purposeful - at least insofar as the enemy is concerned.

The enemy's entire gameplan, however, is already all laid out for us in the pages of the Bible, detail by detail. No room for guesswork or mistake, only a question of knowing the ancient identities of the respective players who are still upon the scene and vitally involved.

As we have always said of the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion, if it is a "fake" or a "forgery" - as the Jews insist that it is - then someone has been following it as a blueprint for world domination now for the past century. That issue then answers itself.

Do you realize how imminently close that places us, not only to the events as they are outlined in Revelation, but to the conclusion of the entire world saga?

How close is close? John said that it was close two thousand years ago. And I'm sure that it was to a God for whom a "day" was sufficient to create the earth. But the recent and one-time-only developments like the super high-technology reminiscent of the "miracles" described in the Bible, the one-world Satanic System and the fact that the Seed of Israel no longer has any place left to run to escape alien domination and genetic pollution tell me as much and in a language I've learned very well over the course of the past thirty years. None of this ever before.

And the pace now achieved by the progression of developments. A veritable frenzy.

All pretty obvious to me.

I was more than excited when these pieces fell into place for me after a long and improbable quest.

All I can do is share it with you.

Take it or leave it.

The Good Stranger

by Robert Burns

115

Doing jail or prison time is the perfect time for reading the Bible. Don't get sick and put this down immediately. I'm the same realist and atheist I always was. There is much history and instruction in those pages if only a person knows how to read it. After all, how could all of our ancestors have been so wrong for so long and still established Western Civilization? How could they have conquered and subjugated the rest of the world if the Bible they carried was so utterly bogus?

Something changed very recently and very drastically to account for the sudden and catastrophic reversal of fortunes for the Aryan race, not only in the world but in those countries supposedly "their own". We're after all still the same genetically. Those words in the Bible remain unchanged. Why then is it that everything is going to hell now and there appears to be nothing that can be done about it?

The cause, the symptoms and the consequences are all painstakingly laid out there in the Bible for those, in the Bible's own language, "with an eye to see and an ear to hear". More and more in this present-day Movement are admitting that it all comes as a result of a failure of beliefs. This is true. But even a true statement is of no use if its particulars aren't understood. In the exceedingly long and agonized lamentations section of the Bible, it hammers away for hundreds of pages on the abject downfall of the people because "they had turned away from God." Right. But what does it mean?

Worshipping and sacrificing like crazy and still going down the tube to national death, until the point is reached where God himself tells them to stop calling upon him as he is no longer listening. And then the bottom comes up: Foreign invasion; conquest; deportation; and captivity. We're about to that point here today, the "cup of iniquity" is almost full. Except, as I have stressed before, this time it will have to come from within, probably in the form of an economic collapse leading to rioting, starvation and a break-up of this current power system.

No one wants it (except those of us who recognize the System as the enemy of our people.) Yet few who are even partially aware will attempt to deny that a very similar such scenario is undoubtedly on the way. How can this be? Have we not the power to stop it, to reverse the trend? To "repent", as it were? The answer then and now is... NO! And there must be a reason why.

Something basic has gone wrong with the belief system. Not new to us here, in this place and this time. But something that presages and accompanies each and every death of a people and a civilization. It's the fatal syndrome I'll call "The Good Stranger".

God in the Bible commands his people to utterly wipe out those alien peoples who were then inhabiting the land of Canaan, "lest I do to you what I intend to do to them." "Do not take their daughters as wives for your sons and do not give your daughters as wives for their sons." Otherwise, it goes on, they will become a "snare" to you and will get you "worshipping other gods" - in violation of one of the Ten Commandments.

Actually, two commandments are involved here. "Thou shalt not commit adultery" has a dual meaning. The literal definition of adultery means "to alter". Put that together with a sexual connotation and what implication do you have? Miscegenation, racial integration, multi-racialism and multi-culturalism. The strange ways, strange gods of strange people. Leading to a general confusion within the society and, ultimately, to "strange children".

There, in that time, the end product was racial "Jews" - our own bastard result, the living mirror of our own sins and transgressions against the Law. The term "Jew" only appears for the first time approximately halfway through the Bible as the overall corruption has become so bad that it is irreversible. It of course ends with the new majority of racial Jews murdering the savior of the White - and now minority - element, the Aryan specimen, Jesus.

Here, in this time, our sins which are before our eyes assume the form of millions and millions of mulattoes and other "multi-racial" anomalies.

It starts with the "good stranger" and proceeds from there. Instead of killing off those other tribes in Canaan as God commanded them, the people merely conquered them and put them to paying tribute while still in their midst. Eventually things slackened and even such luminaries as Samson, David and Solomon were consorting with "strange wives".

In order for that much to go on and be accepted generally by the society, can you imagine the damage that has to have already been done to the overall laws and values? In the lamentations of the prophets an unmistakable, shocking and chilling representation of a rotten society and people is painfully detailed which reflects this one here today completely. And despite any calamity sent to them as a warning from God, they were unable or unwilling to wake up and change their act. So it is here today.

In fact, in response to these warnings, they only react by pouring more fuel on the fire. The only instance on record of an advanced, modern civilization having actually awakened and pulled itself out of the downward spiral was in Nazi Germany during the Third Reich period from 1933 to 1945. And who is more accursed today by the world system than Adolf Hitler? What creeds are more roundly condemned than "racism" and so-called "anti-Semitism".

This reveals itself on its face. With an arrangement like that, can it be any wonder at all why everything else is rotten and falling apart? The very foundation of any people's belief system has been cut out and labelled as "evil" and "anathema". There's no chance in hell for any improvement, no hope of any turn-around. Only further deterioration... until the bottom opens up.

One more admonishment from God to his people had to do with never putting any "stranger" in power over them. Movement members will well be aware that this government, media and system of finance has long been owned and operated by Jews. "Strange gods." With the opinion-forming media in the hands that it is in, with all supposed "leaders" all bought and paid for, how can it be any wonder the depravity that now generally infects most of our own people to one degree or another, let alone the rest of the population - the "minorities", the rest of the "strangers"?

In the Bible it is also made plain that in the dying days of the society even the priests will be of no use in seeking wisdom or understanding. I often recount the true, personal story of my quizzing one young minister how it could be possible that Satan, in full command of the power of the world, would permit wealthy and well-established churches like his to continue to operate in the open, unmolested... unless. Unless their message was either of no threat to him or was in fact aiding him.

"Yes, I know." Then he went on to assure me that he was trying his best to activate his congregation to greater participation in programs dedicated to more peace, tolerance and brotherhood.

There you are.

The assimilated stranger plus the weakness and gaps in the belief system that allows for his presence and assimilation in the first place.

Better by a thousand times a frontal, military assault than this. This is blood poisoning, death by carbon monoxide asphyxiation. A death sleep.

And, no, there will be no waking up from it.

It must run its course. Exactly as in the Bible, all will be erased except for a remnant who will be left to start over.

Will people ever learn?

"On the Street Where You Live" by Robert Burns

When the musical team of Lerner and Loewe produced their Broadway play, "My Fair Lady", they wrote in a scene which they accompanied by a song with the above title. It went on to become a hit single. The young male admirer would content himself to wait forever if necessary out on the sidewalk and just "drink-in the street where she lives."

Today this would be called "stalking" and he would be arrested.

Those who can remember the 1950s will recall the decrying of the new syndrome just then appearing within the society - or at least the cosmopolitan portion of the society, "I don't want to get involved." Brutal crimes were being committed in Central Park and in apartment buildings, etc., in full view of onlookers and with no one coming to the assistance of the victim. Here was a "red flag" if ever there was one for the rest of us.

Something very profound had taken place within American society of the post World War Two era and it wasted little time in showing itself. Who were these attackers, anyway? In the main, they were what was being called "juvenile delinquents", one more new term coined to denote one more late phenomenon. Disaffection, alienation - a society of "strangers", ripe for coming apart, primed for a "Big Brother", "1984" style of dictatorship.

It had to start in the major urban areas, the natural hotbeds for any and all unhealthy and anti-human trends. Cosmopolitan is the word. It was taken up by the media, this poisonous stimuli, and filtered down through all the towns, villages and hamlets until today, when it has arrived at the point of saturation, high and low. With total saturation achieved, it now is only a matter of waiting to see how the blanket, overall symptoms of national insanity and death continue to manifest themselves as the bottom looms up.

Even as World War Two was winding down, with the defeat of the Axis assured by 1944, The Roosevelt "New Deal" regime was pushing all-out for the racial integration of America, starting with the military. The following decade it was the turn of the educational system to be integrated - at the point of already integrated military bayonets. In the decade following that, the floodgates were thrown wide open. A whole society had been changed in what had to have been a record short time, utilizing every means that a modern, technological-age dictatorship had at its disposal. What an incomparable study in applied evil and its effects.

From a White society which happened to contain pockets of colored, ethnic minorities that were held in strict subjection, into a multi-racial and multi-cultural society - all in well under a generation. The face, the personality and certainly the psyche of America was changed by this. To have achieved the goal that was cherished among liberal and Red collegians in the 1920s and 1930s may have been a marvel to behold but how may we best weigh and appreciate the actual benefits and the hard results of it?

Racial integration as opposed to racial integrity. That's what's been lost. That and everything which goes with it. For one, a sense of national "family". You can attempt that with "all races, creeds and colors" but you'll discover that it just doesn't work. Indeed, they've brought it about here and you are living in the result. A federalist, polyglot empire. They don't want a nation, they want a corporate state with everything attuned to profit, profit for those at the very top. However, all they've succeeded in doing is dealing a fatal blow to the very goose that laid the golden egg in the first place.

With the national family compromised and shot in the head, it was only a question of that same symptom penetrating down and spreading to infect and destroy the very core of any living specie: The single family unit. The nest was becoming an anthill. Except that humans are not ants. Very simply and basically, the society has been driven mad, has gone insane. All the negative acting-out? A perfectly predictable and appropriate response to life conducted under the dominance of totally impossible and insane ideals and doctrines.

Way past the Central Park scenario, with a relatively sound general population looking on aghast, not knowing what to make of it or what to do about it, it's come full-circle now with insanity and paranoia in full command and determined to remake the world in their own image. A candle burning at both ends, a serpent devouring its own tail. A clock at five minutes to midnight.

Forgetting for the moment the irreversible genetic damage coming out of this, it's the mood and the climate of absolute paranoia which should fascinate and alarm any astute observer - that is one who's not completely so caught up in it that he can't see it. A wonderfully vibrant society when the Twentieth Century was new. But because that didn't suit the whim of the uninvited, anti-national, hidden masters, it had to go in favor of what has amounted to Marxist Socialism. The "social turmoil" before was the natural instinct of former American society trying to resist the forced imposition of this sick nightmare upon them a stage at a time by "their own" government.

Lately, it has become more of a case of the logical and predictable consequences of the "victory" of this conspiracy surfacing to be dealt with.

Things are taking a nasty turn. Stalking, domestic violence, child abuse, all manner of substance abuse. Things from out of the closet, that were always there within any society but which were kept to an absolute minimum, aberrations that were accepted as such, now have transfigured themselves into monsters and have burst out into the open. There's nothing left of a healthy nature to offset them any longer. And for those situations that may yet fall within the formerly "normal" range of behavior for a love-struck suitor, for example, a marital spat, the disciplining of a child, etc., the official reaction of an increasingly intrusive State is to treat all alike: Criminal and deviant behavior.

The State - whose policies led straight up to this - now is going to move with all the force it commands to "control" it. For one, police now have had all power of discretion removed from them - they must arrest. Common sense is thereby ruled right out of the equation. Prison, fine, "therapy" sessions, etc. "Education." Are they that insane, that stupid, that corrupt? Or is it more a blend of all three?

The well-publicized case of the kindergartener charged with "sexual assault" for kissing a female classmate on the cheek. The surrealistic ballyhoo over a U.S. President having had illicit affairs with young women. A lot is going on here - none of it good. Rape - common. Divorce - common. Abortion - common. Narcotics addiction - common. Homosexuality - common. Miscegenation - common. Corruption in high places - common. On and on I could go.

The point being the commonality of it all. Its acceptance, or, at the very least, the inappropriate response to it. It arrived at this point under very careful control, strict guidance. Now, however, it is out of control. Why? Because each measure taken to counter each new symptom which arises only has the effect of exacerbating the problem, of throwing gasoline on a fire. Furthermore, before the core and the infra-structure of the society was twisted and ruined, it required no such "control", it was natural and organic and ran and performed in like manner. Tampering, meddling. Violating certain natural laws.

This is termed folly and futility. However, lucrative careers and a sense of self-importance are dependant upon its continuance. Therefore, it is yet represented as serious and responsible business, the "affairs of state", with "qualified experts" in charge who "know best". If you don't agree, they have a burgeoning prison system all set and waiting for you.

Misery, terror, despair, confusion, iniquity - all this and more are the "benefits" and the cost every man, woman and child is now paying. A sense of hopelessness stalks the land. This is all the "fruit" of "democratic ideals" - peace, love, brotherhood. Materialism. Multi-culturalism and multi-racialism with an alien clique ruling at the top. They won't tolerate any interference in this but they'll not be getting away with it very much longer.

"Those whom the gods intend to destroy they first make mad." And in their madness they'll in all reality destroy themselves. "They'll flee even when none are pursuing." All the symptoms of classic paranoia.

All the way right over the edge.

You Bet Your Life

Two unmistakable patterns have emerged sufficiently over the past decade that I feel confident enough to base all of my prognostications on them and them alone. Forget "issues", forget "personalities", forget "politics" and forget "history". All of these old favorites of the dabblers are subjective and wide open to interpretation. I, for one, have no tolerance for "blowing sunshine" and no patience for worn out theories and hopes.

Begin with "ZOG", the Zionist Occupation Government. There is no debate. An enemy is in control over the affairs of all "developed", i.e., White nations. Dumb moves, stupid moves, inept moves, manifestations of corruption, societal ills, everything the populace babbles about - with the media as great purveyor - are not "mistakes". Or, as in the case of convinced liberals, policies of such high-minded "idealism" that they just are "beyond the ken" of common folk - even when they are seen to fall flat when it comes to achieving their stated goal.

No. They are, each one, another positive step in an iron-clad program carried out by ruthless and efficient professionals to enslave the respective peoples. That every phase of this is and has been made to appear as an "error" is proof positive of an alien conspiracy at work, consciously counter to the interests of those it rules over.

Controlled media and controlled party politicians represent the new version of "checks and balances" in favor of the conspiracy and against the people ever sorting out and correcting the situation. The old shell game. A "democracy" made up of an "enlightened" electorate would never have permitted a situation like this to have come about. A society of "free" people would never permit it to continue. The politicians and the media keep up the diversions, a dwindling number of people bother to go to the polls, and the now unmistakable curve, or trend, proceeds on course without interruption toward its objective.

Even Lincoln couldn't foresee the manipulations of "Big Brother" when he said, "You can fool some of the people some of the time, some of the people all of the time. But you can't fool all of the people all of the time." Point being you don't have to. All you have to do is remove actual control of affairs up and out of their hands, then allow them to believe anything they will. Impressions, likes or dislikes don't count. Only results.

That takes us directly into "No Political Solution". Not only can't anything be done about the situation, nothing can be done counter to it. Thanks to the absolute monopoly over the media, economy, government, etc., the "marginal" effect, that of being left "high and dry", of "dying on the vine" effectively prevents the establishing of any real opposition or government-in-the-wings as a safety or a contingency against that time when the current facade ruptures. An open invitation to national and world disaster, though the conspiracy surely looks at it with smug satisfaction as a "lock-out" consummately affected by them to ensure their continued control.

This sounds bad only if you maintain some attachment to the status quo. Only if you harbor some allegiance to the System. If your heart and mind are where they ought to be, this reality at once relieves you of an infinite and impossible burden of peripheral and irrelevant quandaries.

One of the two patterns beyond dispute now is that the monstrous edifice built over so much time, with so much care and stealth by the System, stands on quicksand. To convert a modern, industrialized nation into a Third World beehive entails more than just mere theory. Irreparable structural damage has been done to the inner fabric of American society in order to smooth the way for the implementation of a Marxist Utopia of "equality". As in the Soviet Union, the same theories didn't work. No matter. Pass laws and send police to "enforce" them. Tell the media to paint it all in only the best, most glowing terms. The only thing to matter is continued increase in the control in the hands of the System. But control over what?

In terms of countries and societies, the System, by riding roughshod over the laws of nature and the will and the best interests of the people whose country it is, has in effect destroyed the center of gravity, the nucleus of the atom. The result is universal alienation, the creation of a situation unworkable for any practical purpose. For the present, the System will take full advantage of this as the perfect cover to put a police state into effect, thus cementing its control. But this is a cancer and already the effort at "control" is assuming the characteristics of an attempt to shore up a rotten framework. "Control", yes, but now in retreat.

Rather like the story of "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" on an ugly scale.

The damage done here is far graver than that done to Russian society. Hardly any comparison. This System still "shores up" the Russian state just as it has done since the time of the Bolsheviks. Who will shore up the United States once the cancer has devoured all healthy, living tissue?

Just as we have no control over the System, the System has no ultimate control over the mess they've created. They've affected their dream, alright. Now the consequences are here and have small concern for the "Wisdom of the Learned Elders".

Consolation? Any reasonably healthy "Baby Boomer" ought to be able to expect to be on hand for the climax. The curve in recent years has commenced a precipitous descent, the effects of the disease are spreading exponentially. For those with weak constitutions this will hardly be seen as anything cheerful. For me - ensconced in a System prison as I write these words - it is a distinctly bright and heart-warming prospect. The death of the System. To be alive for such an epoch-making event is a rare distinction.

The second pattern to make itself apparent? For the past decade, approximately, racial and religious groups and individuals have been constantly at open war with the System. Despite the beyond-Orwellian job the media has done upon the human mind, spirit and will, acts of resistance are on the increase. Due to the realization of the existence of ZOG - but even more due to the increasing inescapability of the consequences of ZOG policies - a million or more years of evolution in the form of the instinct for self-preservation is again coming to the surface.

It has required a lot of heat and pressure for this pot to begin to boil and we are witnessing only the barest of beginnings. If it has taken this long and this much to produce the reactions we've seen in the past ten years or so, then we may be encouraged by the now vertical descent in the very same trends. For every action, a reaction. It has been frustrating that it has called for so much damage and outrage from which to distill so little action. But again, the balance is tipping.

Massive colored crime and disorder. Acts of resistance on the part of White separatists. The anvil and the hammer. The System only has to snap once, only has to drop the ball once, and it's finished.

Attempts at repression? You may depend on it. A wide-open secret is that the more blatant and energetic the System attempts at repression become, the hotter the fire of resistance will become. In an effort to save themselves, they'll cause their own incineration.

For a long time our people have been jittery about System internment camps for dissidents like ourselves. And for a long time our people have been postulating the Northwest as a haven of retreat for Whites in the face of an imploding multi-racial, federal "Roman Empire". The key to either will be in who has the will to move on it. To wait until it jumps off on its own - as it is going to - either to round us all up or to repair to the Northwest, will mean to have missed that boat.

Both scenarios are figments of Movement imaginations. Some separatists are even now in the Northwest. Many are even now - as am I - in prisons in special "Ad Seg" units. But these aren't broad, sweeping programs and things haven't as yet broken loose, either. The two events I've outlined will dictate everything. The bigger, more grandiose the "plan", the bigger the flop. Isn't that the way it's been?

The news is good. The continuance of this "order" benefits only the System and it is anarchy that is on the way - like it or not. As the climate heats up, guaranteed that more and more separatists will go off with increasing degrees of effectivity. Without this Movement's response, the struggle now set in this historic time would be like a rudderless boat.

And it all has a mind of its own.

Reason, Emotion & Instinct

by James Mason

It is the frustration and uncertainty over what is really wrong in the country and the world that seems to be what stumps and confounds most people even inside the Movement. The symptoms are there for any to see and interpret but it is how it came to be and what's to be done about it that continues to prove so elusive.

A certain barrier has to be breached in order to be able to make any sense of all this apparently random madness. That is the very one that even those who may be harboring their own suspicions already don't want to cross. It constitutes the dividing line between us and everyone else. And that is to see and acknowledge that, yes, Virginia, there IS a ZOG (Zionist Occupation Government.) Most won't permit that realization to escape the deepest recesses of their own consciences as something down very deep tells them that perhaps if they ignore it, it won't harm them.

An instinct acting to override reason and emotion yet, because it is real enough to prompt action or inaction out of fear, it tells us in unmistakable language that what we dread is indeed genuine. "Impenetrably stupid", is how Hitler described the masses. But even the lowest creatures on earth, possessing only brain stems, understand what it means to feel fear. And fear is ultimately what governs today.

I have often pondered how one of today's liberals would have thought and functioned centuries ago. I have become convinced absolutely that liberal types are born with a certain susceptibility to respond as they do to the stimuli around them. They all have that certain something in common. I've been acquainted with some liberals very well, both male and female. Exasperated with me at first, at length they all came around to admitting to me that I was right in all aspects.

Always intelligent, usually professional, mainly very responsible and unfailingly gracious, they seem to project what's going around that passes for "avant gard" sophistication but, in fact, I see them as trusting little children who, more than anything, want to believe what they've been told by the society that gave birth to them. And so conscientious are they that they'll become irate at any who seriously question the basis of that.

Emotion coming into play to cancel out the processes of both reason and instinct.

ZOG's complete control over all media and education does a superb job of short-circuiting any chance at all that the power of reason within any individual might otherwise have at unravelling any deep social problem. George Lincoln Rockwell aptly compared even the smartest mind to no better than a computer which, if denied knowledge and facts or fed patently false information, could not possibly generate valid answers.

In the Movement we see a lot of those who, like a car engine not running on all its cylinders, are being motivated out of one or two but not all of these three: Reason, emotion and instinct. Though their general awareness will be much greater than those outside the Movement, this imbalance of things so powerful seldom fails to give the impression of an unbalanced individual and one whose beliefs and pronouncements are rendered suspect or invalid by that.

And doesn't ZOG just love it!

At least among those within the System mindset, all three faculties are evenly impaired giving an impression of "balance" or "integrity". But don't be fooled. Look at the shape of the world they're running. Look at their own lives.

Imagine the kind of society we'd have if all institutions of higher learning, along with all branches of popular media, were not in the hands of a coterie of hostile aliens and were instead committed to true enlightenment. These present common-as-dirt problems would evaporate in the light of applied common sense and there would be no limitations then upon the people's potential.

Nothing short of a renaissance.

Getting back to the thought of one of today's liberal types having existed in ages past, I've seen enough to know that no segment of the population has more to hold the alien, ZOG System accountable for than those who call themselves "liberal". Genetics formed over billions of years can be relied upon to have been in full operation just a couple of centuries ago - well before any alien influences were present.

I think we can be sure that all those to-the-fore tendencies toward idealism made them community leaders then just as they are now. The hideous, outrageous difference between then and now is that, before, they were in the service of their own people while today, having been reared by our own common enemy, they are busy leading White society to its destruction.

What Greek tragedy could contain more irony?

If they could somehow be awakened, as though "in the twinkling of an eye", how might they then react toward their arch-deceivers?

But can that happen?

Truth or Consequences

by James Mason

The question is: Would these people today be doing what they're doing if they felt sure they'd have to pay for their actions? The statement is: They carry on as they do because they feel certain they'll suffer no retribution.

A common criminal type, when apprehended by the law, is sorry as hell. Sorry for being caught, not sorry for his actions. But he knows his chances of getting away with it are at least worth the risk and, if caught, that the punishment can be justified and written off.

The real criminals - those holding corporate and political power - know exactly that what they're up to amounts to capital crime against the very people they are sworn to serve. They also know that their chances of getting away with it are quite excellent compared with those of the criminal in the street. After all, they are the "law". And they know that should worse come to worse, they might have to resign, maybe do a little "country club" time, pay a fine which, in any case, represents mere peanuts to their bankroll, perhaps take some tar-brushing in the press but then collect their marbles, go home and retire in comfort. The only thing remaining in their wake is the damage.

So on and on it goes.

Why then the bother over all the play-acting? For one, if crime and such were completely wide-open as it is in "Banana Republics", etc., there wouldn't be a society the way we know it. Then for another, it is that "we" upon which the whole thing pivots. Whites do not constitute the populations of those places where disorder rules. So where Whites are predominate, a certain semblance of "law & order" must be maintained even if it is just a charade for the sake of appearances.

Corruption at the top and at the bottom are first cousins. A dictatorship is as repugnant to Whites as is a crime wave or an anarchy. The difference between the two is that the highly-placed criminals in business and government have set themselves up over the rest of us with the utmost cynicism and hypocrisy in order to enrich themselves at our expense. The common criminal is at least straightforward about what he does.

People have their own ideas about what a criminal is and that generally encompasses what we think of whenever a murderer, a rapist, a robber or a burglar is involved. As bad as that may be, it is nothing compared with a criminal in power over you with the authority of the state at his command. Not only vastly more dangerous but infinitely more odious to contemplate. A very real betrayal.

The play-acting involving the police, courts, prisons and even the media, etc.? It all is to protect the criminals.

To protect them from whom?

From you, of course.

If somehow the great masses of Whites could see and know they are ruled by criminal sell-outs, they would do just as their ancestors always did and would revolt. So, minus the cat-and-mouse game of "cops and robbers", "good-guy versus bad-guy" constantly in motion like a circus side-show shell-game, someone might wake up and spoil the fun. You are subject to being victimized by violent crime so that the big crooks can step in once in awhile, make a bust, and come off looking good.

Note the problem is never solved but only gets gradually worse. More street crime and more police. It is you who are the target of this squeeze-play. It is only you who produce the wealth and the goods they are after. It is only you who could conceivably stamp them out. It is you that they must keep in blinders, divided and under control.

It's been observed that a people will get exactly the kind of government it deserves. Though one can cite the reasons why this state of affairs has come about and why it has continued to this point, it ultimately can serve as no excuse for a populace that continues to be duped in such a fashion. No truth is ever to be forthcoming from a cornered criminal. Perhaps some amount of snivelling in hopes of escaping justice but no real truth.

That truth would have to assume the form of the admission of their having had absolutely no regard for you or your well-being to the extent that their own greed animated them to take full advantage of you in a situation of their own design and making. A conscious and deliberate - even if hidden - attack upon you.

So it would then be incumbent upon you - the masses of Whites - to do some truth-telling of your own.

If you don't have the capacity to see through all this just the way those of us in the Movement have done and if you don't have the courage to act upon it just as we have done, then you absolutely deserve to be fleeced and killed just as you now are. If you are so craven as to turn a blind eye to all this and continue to pay your taxes and to vote for these sell-outs in the hope that maybe no one will harm you, then you deserve to be the next one they cut out of the herd for slaughter.

In that then, the truth you must own up to may be harder to bear than theirs. It's a matter of their being aggressive and your being passive. That's how a gang can control a country. That's how a bully operates. Have you been a coward?

For them, the only acceptable answer is a bullet in the head. For you, unless you begin to fight back, your answer is on its way automatically.

Truth or consequences.

Take Your Pick

by James Mason

As this prison sentence moves toward its close, I find the comments from prisoners and guards alike increasing with regard to the laid-back way I've handled my incarceration. One sergeant said, "Not even the parole board gets you down." There are secrets to a successful prison stay but they make up another story. What is no secret but what mainly allowed me to maintain high spirits throughout the past two years is the fact that, of all the many people here - on both sides of the law - I am the one who best knows what the future holds.

No clairvoyant, I've watched the headlines and seen the trends on the outside while I've been subject to how the System reacts to them here in their sanctum sanctorum, unfettered as they are here by concerns of constitutionality, i.e., in their natural environment, being just what they are. Being under it all, I nonetheless like what I see.

The secret to this? The intensive hassling I've been through over the past decade - and longer - has driven from me any vestige of reaction that once might have remained. When I left my life-long home in Ohio in 1992, on the twin horns of economic strangulation and police harassment, my parting statement was that my only desire now was to witness the death of the System even if it meant my own death in the same course.

Too many - most, in fact - even inside of the supposedly "radical" segment of the Movement still complain, still dread as the unmistakable mile-markers of the impending climax materialize one by one. The cities going to hell in crime and degeneracy; The System encroaching and tightening up its grip a little more all the time; Coloreds taking over everywhere and the "New World Order" just around the corner. Does all this represent a fear, an objection, a wonderment or exactly what?

We can almost discount the age-old Conspiracy litany now, things have come so far. There will be those who don't want to abandon it because it's what they know and are comfortable with. They do not know and cannot envision a climax or a resolution to all of this. Can they really still expect to see it somehow "fixed"? Would they have this continue on into perpetuity? Do they suppose that is even a possibility? No. It is because they still cling to it, don't want to suffer any loss, don't want to "get hurt".

That's why they cannot welcome with a glad and anxious heart what is clearly on the way as I do. During 1969, as I was cruising the Capital beltway with Robert Lloyd, I gazed over into the District, toward all the magnificent and floodlit monuments, and mused what would become of all that when the moment finally arrived. Lloyd quoted Lenin, "You can't make an omelet without breaking eggs."

At this advanced stage of things, the only instructional aspect about the ZOG (Zionist Occupation Government) conspiracy has to be the concrete-like realization that something has to be in absolute control of this cauldron that is about to come to a boil and has as its only interest the continuance of its own power, no matter the cost. Problems can't even be addressed for the ironic reason that they represent fundamentals in the ZOG philosophy. To address them, to wake up and see the light, to attempt in earnest to rectify things now would mean ZOG's effective abdication. But the big fact is that ZOG policies have led up to a situation that some time ago went beyond salvagability. That, therefore, renders any and all political considerations immaterial. I've begun applying the term "free-fall" to all of this.

Social commentary? Late during World War Two, Mussolini lamented his sad position and the role of his country this way: "Had Michelangelo only clay to work with, he'd have been no more than a potter." By that then, even the most energetic and idealistic of today's Systematarians here could best only aspire to being "Roto-Rooter" men.

The System knows this and grows alarmed even if it can't admit it. Forget the criminality of a few, it has been the highest ideals of the many that has led to this. This has been artificially created for the edification of a certain strata of crack-brain elitists. However, it will not go away artificially. What has been summoned up is nothing short of a hurricane in human, social terms. And that is the way it is going to play out.

"Official" response? A police state. Reactionaries everywhere decry simultaneously both increasing disorder and growing government intrusion. This is an impossible position. They at the same breath denounce colored crime and government ploys at gaining more control. "Gun control", the debate of idiots. If there was a criminal conspiracy at work here to, first, usurp power and authority and then, second, to use this to impose its alien agenda over this country, BOTH things would have to come to pass and indeed have. Now one and all, master and victim, have to countenance and grapple with the hard consequences.

Whites now have their militias as well as what the System media calls "hate groups". Coloreds have their gangs and crime. Any proper basis for this phony and illegitimate System evaporates more and more all the time and it begins to reveal itself for what it actually is as it takes measures to protect itself against the very people - White and colored - that it supposedly was democratically elected to serve. Cards coming out on the table, lines being drawn.

"New World Order"? ZOG control? Don't kid yourself and give to them more credit than they are due. Maybe long ago it was a plan for Zionist dictatorship but now it is no more than desperate measures seen as the most dire necessity just for their continued survival. This "glorious experiment" has sugar in the gas tank just as did the "great" Soviet experiment. But here there will be no easy way down as with Gorbachev and "glasnost". Imagine one, big L.A. riot from coast to coast.

Coloreds are swarming and more Whites are preparing to fight. All while the infrastructure begins to give way. Government of, by and for Jews is what led to this. The militia movement correctly sees the federal government as the instrument responsible. I'm confident they'll soon enough come around to realizing that no distinction exists or should be drawn between federal, state or local System politicians or any other ZOG mercenaries. They today block any hope of sorting anything out and merely represent a paper-thin dam behind which a disastrous flood continues to build up.

When this breaks, just as it must, should and will break, the prime concern for each individual will be trying to stay alive another day, another hour. Events in the rest of the world, once the United States dissolves into civil war, will be anyone's guess. I suspect that a great deal will be sorted out all over the globe once Big Brother's hand is removed.

Once the initial shock and the worst confusion has blown over, ethnic regions will establish themselves. Between truly honest, sincere racial-national elements, there may even be the possibility of cooperation. The first order of that cooperation will be then just as it should be today the common, concerted effort to eliminate every trace of ZOG, System power anywhere. The map of North America at the very least will be redrawn.

This I can easily envision as I lay in this comfortable cell. The vision of this cell then, to many, will seem like a paradise. That is why I can smile when I think of what is coming to these cowards and fools while they go on pretending in their game of "Good Guys and Bad Guys".

I'm ahead of my element, waiting for it to catch up. It's going to get very rough. Best lose your fear of loss or death. Best make a choice now. Uninvolvement carries its own price. Take refuge behind a police state? That's the philosophy of a worm. Hoping it'll last at length the duration of your own, miserable, worthless lifespan? Don't bank on that. During the meantime you could be out on your ass financially or murdered on the street. Gangs of coloreds won't bother to ask whether you're a Kennedy liberal. Fence-sitters are apt to get it from both sides. "Innocent victims"? Mere statistics.

Over twenty years ago Joseph Tommasi said, "Pray for victory and not an end to the slaughter. If we are successful, you'll be safe. If not, kiss the baby goodbye."

Competent and Professional

Why is there no great social movement in action against the ZOG (Zionist Occupation Government) System? Why isn't there a replay here today similar to the backlash that retook Germany for the Germans in the 1920s and 1930s?

Three answers: First, because the United States "never lost a war", people here believe that this still is really "their government"; Second, as bad as the media in Weimar Germany was, this one here today is infinitely worse in bending the minds and the hearts of the people against their own interests; And, third, because here today - in direct contrast to the NSDAP experience in Germany - most all of the competent and professional people are solidly within the System.

All these reasons interlock, with one leading into another, but the fact remains that without sufficient human resources capable and ready to take action, not much can be done by way of positive and conventional organization.

The Movement has always been held to a minimum here by these factors. Not to say that we don't have and haven't had talent. The amount we've had at any given time has been too restricted to be able to generate anything approaching the size and effectiveness of just one of these multiplicitous System corporations, for example.

Tragic and sad but the outward condition of the country reflects the reality of it perfectly.

Stepping forward to do something is one thing. Having the competency and the professionalism to make a successful impact is quite another. Most are content - indeed committed - to applying their abilities to making money within the enemy System. That in itself constitutes its own vicious cycle. Feeding the hand that bites you, left with no time to think or to act in your own behalf.

Troubling to think that the first-class leadership we have had - such as George Lincoln Rockwell - was practically wasted and squandered because there wasn't even the necessary secondary, back-up network of support for him. Little one man alone can do apart from pulling a trigger or planting a bomb.

If anything at all, these things should serve to convince the honest and realistic individual to stop looking for events to happen that have no basis for taking place under current circumstances. Hopefully, also to prevent good and sincere people from wasting their time in futile pursuits, not to mention endless dashed hopes.

In history there are a lot more examples of national crises going all the way over the brink than there are of them being redeemed at the last moment. That of the United States is in that broader, first category, I'm afraid.

We've seen it growing ever more dramatic in recent months and years. On the one hand, symptoms of national decomposition followed by government moves toward dictatorship in attempt to stick a thumb in a sodden, loosening dike. On the other hand, Movement members acting alone - in the only way left to them - to blow more holes faster than they can be filled in the rotten System fabric.

"That which is about to fall down deserves to be knocked down.", are the words of Joseph Goebbels. "We don't want to rock the boat, we want to sink it!", are the words of Ed Reynolds.

But none of this serves to deny the practical application of competency and professionalism.

Imagining they had learned the ultimate lesson by their nearly-fatal mistake in allowing the peaceful rise of Hitler in Germany, they have it now where there can be no effective White organization within any realistic context, much less as part of the System itself.

That doesn't answer the bigger, more pressing problem of a damnable mess of their own creation about to pull apart.

And it says nothing about a small but growing core of White fanatics determined to take the System out, even at the cost of their own lives and liberty. Among these, the most competent and professional will be able to go on and on, making the biggest, most effective strikes.

And so the dynamic is seen to hold true in spite of any effort on the part of the System to suppress it. It is they who don't seem to realize that to attempt in this way to hold back a natural reaction to an intolerable condition is like trying to muffle a volcano or to plug a rifle barrel. Somewhat of a delay, perhaps. But a far worse explosion when it does inevitably come.

Independence Day, the Fourth of July, is one more national holiday that has lost all meaning. A three-day weekend, a time for fireworks and more more excuse for crass media merchandising. July 4th should properly be a day of national mourning for independence lost. Not a time for celebration any longer but an occasion for hanging black crepe. Perhaps representing an historic milestone in the existence of a geo-political entity but nothing more.

Of course the celebrations go on as before, mainly out of ingrained habit. The government and the media exude all the familiar and required platitudes hearkening back to a distant time and a breed of men no longer in evidence - at least not in evidence anywhere near the seats of power. They celebrate not knowing really what is being marked, far less that it has now long since slipped from them. If it were otherwise, it would have to mean that enough were sufficiently aware of the situation to act upon it and perhaps to right it.

The first major clue as to the absence of real freedom: Ignorance and/or apathy.

The rest could be summed up by dictionary definition alone.

Real freedom entails one people, a racial entity, truly united and fully in charge over their own destiny and affairs. On all U.S. coinage it was in the beginning made law that the word "liberty" must appear. There is the key. This people that is to enjoy this freedom must be the kind of people that each member of carries within himself the law. Only then can there be personal liberty and only on the basis of that can there be a free nation.

In two parts then... national sovereignty and personal liberty... was freedom lost in this country.

Very early on, through alien interests and their financial inducements toward internal sell-outs, the country's government, business, media, banking and education passed out of its control - out of the control and the service of the people. So much for sovereignty.

Next, the painful results.

Directly because of the hidden, alien control having gone on for generations, the overall population now contains a large enough segment of those having no law within themselves that the government must impose its law upon them. This trend, however, encompasses everyone.

Prison by nature is a controlled environment for those who have no law within themselves. As society in general becomes more filled with these types, a literal prison state will gradually evolve. Those remaining who do have the law within themselves will automatically become the new outlaws because they cannot and will not accept existence in a police, prison state.

The new definition then of freedom has to do with what group of a multi-cultural, multi-racial political entity you happen to identify with. To some it will mean the freedom to run rampant or to have a free ride. To others it will mean the protection of property rights or the freedom to fleece all the rest. In either case, the necessity of police presence is directly implied. And when the responsibility is in the hands of anyone other than yourself, there is no freedom.

To enforce this mockery of what true freedom really means, it is becoming necessary to usher in dictatorship. Unavoidable because national sovereignty was surrendered long ago.

Sic semper tyrannis, however, as goes the state motto of Virginia. The tyranny will destroy itself through the very methods it now sees as the way to its preservation.

It will make itself known for what it is and, in so doing, it will rouse ever more of those as yet sleeping but who are cut from the same stuff as those who, over two hundred years ago, carried the law and the right within themselves and who would not bow down to naked tyranny.

And the process will repeat.

Except that this time it will be known and remembered how such hard-won freedom was originally subverted and lost - and by who - and that cycle, at least, will not be repeated ever.

To Whom It May Concern

by James Mason

135

The great Racial-Separatist patriot, Pastor Robert Miles, warned nearly twenty years ago that the sacrifices made by those such as himself for the White race, against the ZOG (Zionist Occupation Government) System, would begin to dwindle unless an appreciable measure of popular support began to show itself. This was his fear at the time and it was mine, too.

Happily, historically and ominously, this sad scenario was not to be the course for the future as events themselves have shown. Popular support is a hard thing to gauge due to the infernal control over the media and communications by the same ZOG enemy. But the incontrovertible fact is that acts of desperation aimed at the System have been and remain on the increase.

This is enough to satisfy me that what is on the way now is absolutely unstoppable.

Miles was sentenced to years in federal prison for burning school busses in Pontiac, Michigan, intended for use in the forced integration program as they were gathered together, parked in a huge lot. Miles discharged his duty honorably and paid the price. School busing went forward and the inestimable social and genetic damage he warned of did indeed come to take place, with an educational system now practically in ruins. Some timid souls within the general population now are making noises favoring the legal abolishment of school busing for the sole purpose of racial integration.

Fewer are aware or know the name of Neal Bradley Long. One day in Dayton, Ohio, Long entered the office of the federal commissar in charge of overseeing that city's school busing program - a Jew named Glatt - and shot him dead. One of my comrades from Ohio named his third son Neal Bradley in honor of Long who remains imprisoned to this day.

As the decade of the Seventies drew to a close, two brothers active in the Columbus, Ohio, area - John and Ed Gerhardt - who had been busy organizing legalistic opposition to this same nation-wide school busing effort for the purpose of mixing the races, were infiltrated by police agents and then entrapped - set up - by them and railroaded into federal prison... for having effectively done nothing.

A legacy of some dedicated people, acting out of conscience and according to the call of honor, with enemy ZOG programs going forward in spite, with lives being disrupted or destroyed but, as of where we stand today, every dire warning this Movement ever issued to the White nation has since become reality - with a vengeance.

Even if you may be unfamiliar with the super-heated issues of that day, such as forced school busing, or whether you've never heard of such heroes as Miles or Long or the Gerhardtts due to enemy control over the press, you nonetheless cannot escape having to live in a world overrun with precisely the very evil that they and hundreds of others sacrificed everything in attempt to protect you from.

As we approach the new century, with enemy ZOG programs in full control everywhere and yielding their poisonous results exactly like some factory spewing forth its toxins into the common environment, we find ourselves at the brink of a reaction on the part of the White nation that will be apocalyptic in its dimensions. As I sit here in this maximum-security prison and watch the headlines and developments, seeing it all escalating toward the confrontation that must come, I recall the sacrifices of the past and I want to shout to all these new people who are rising up all across the country to tell them what it is they are really fighting and how to make their own sacrifices count most heavily.

Brave and dedicated groups of militias and skinheads are taking their actions against what they perceive as insufferable wrongs against the nation by agents of a dark tyranny and rampaging swarms of colored races. They are never out of the news. And this is a barometer of the national mood which does not lie and, if anything, only understates the situation.

But what is it really that we are mainly seeing?

Men in potentially critical, sensitive position within the ZOG military being sentence to life - or death - for having killed a couple of Blacks in order to rate a certain tattoo to be worn on their body. Small bands of people - religious fanatics or Racial-Separatists - heavily armed and highly motivated, getting themselves surrounded and ultimately taken prisoner - if not killed - by ZOG police. And the rats, the pimps, the sell-outs ever-present - doing the real work of the ZOG System for them.

Here in Colorado we recently held our breaths for a period of weeks when an airforce fighter-bomber jet disappeared. On network television, Geraldo Rivera voiced the fear that some militia type might have stashed the plane in some remote place for use later against ZOG itself. I was certainly hoping. Sooner or later, something like that would have to happen. As it turned out it was merely a suicide. What a waste!

Yet, more recently, someone did torch the office of the I.R.S. in Colorado Springs. The A.T.F. is currently on the warpath over this.

While in this already super-max prison, I have seen them further tighten down by proscribing correspondence between prisoners in other facilities and by halting the flow of what Racialist publications as used to make it past the censors. It is all so indicative and, to me, so encouraging and exciting. They cannot effectively stop our communication unless they stop outright all mail and pull out all phones. When they do this, they'll get the explosion that must come.

As it is within the prisons, so it is with the rest of the society. It is a drift, a dance, helplessly out toward disaster. Intelligence of the mind seemingly plays no part. Brute, reptilian action and reaction. Pure physics.

But intelligence must play a part, at least insofar as we are concerned. ZOG cannot change its course for to do so would mean it is no longer ZOG. We however do have the option of modifying strategy as well as tactics so as to achieve a greater effectivity against ZOG and, if necessary, to sell ourselves at a premium price.

For you, the individual, it means that you must - despite any media monopoly - know and understand what you are fighting for, what you are fighting against, as well as the nature of the enemy.

Forget about attacking coloreds! They are but a symptom, albeit a bad one, of a deeper problem. By attacking coloreds you place yourself in grave jeopardy without the slightest hope of achieving or initiating anything worthwhile. Even as the media decries your "hate crime", inwardly they react with glee at your having not only thrown yourself away in this fashion but handed them a propaganda weapon with which to further convince people it is we who are the problem. To go even further toward understanding the nature of the struggle, by such action you do direct harm to the increasing prospect of colored nationalist action against the common enemy - ZOG. And this is a thing which positively terrifies the System.

Do nothing to alienate potential aid and certainly do nothing with the possibility attached of throwing yourself away. You are too valuable.

Stop and think: You risk the same penalty by burning a Black church as you do burning an I.R.S. headquarters. But by burning the Black church you provide easy ammunition to the ZOG media with which to make us look odious to all but the most single-minded of fanatics. By burning the I.R.S., despite anything the media may report, you secretly have won the support and admiration of millions of Whites who are being held in tax slavery by the ZOG System. And, as Joseph Tommasi said, you will have "heightened the contradictions".

A murder rap is a murder rap. Think cost-effective. Some Black, not very far removed from a cotton patch, or some high-and-mighty sell-out politician or bureaucrat who is engineering and orchestrating all the damage - and getting rich doing it? The choice should be, as they say, a "no-brainer". When I was a kid in school, the words of Nathan Hale - "I regret that I have only one life to give..." - sounded almost hokey then, in that day's context. But no more. His words take on more meaning now than ever before.

Don't get yourself boxed in! You must above all else understand that there can be no dealing with the ZOG System. For those of you that consider themselves Christian, the ZOG System represents nothing more or less than the Beast System written of in Revelation. It is the direct instrument of Satan. Those who serve it do so for the money that ZOG pays them. It's all they know or care about. The System can only be met with superior force and presently that exists nowhere on Earth. They will not listen. They will have it their way only. And they will stop at nothing to do it, including killing, willingly and gladly. What's more, they are for the moment answerable to no one. It is the BEAST!

Separatists must have no illusions about this. Forget about silly distinctions of "federal", "state" or "local". They are all the same, serving the same master, following the same orders. They are in it for money and position and ZOG determines all of this. Separatism today means separate members of a lost and scattered White nation within the confines of this artificial and bastardized political-economic entity referred to as the United States. You'd better know the sides and know which side you're on.

A false or incomplete understanding of what this means has already led to the mass-executions of those who've in the past tried to organize themselves into communities apart from the Beast. All it accomplishes is to make a high and easy target of yourselves. The System can't and won't tolerate any perceived opposition to itself. Because it too understands better than most that this is a life-or-death struggle.

we are relying as much upon the endless evils unleashed by the System itself to bring it down ultimately as anything else. This is simply because the System holds all power. It is the government, it is the courts, it is the police. Even while the System grapples with the run-away problems of its own making that are threatening to rip the foundation out from under it, it will nonetheless furiously go after any who merely would like to bow out. Do not present them this opportunity.

Take it to them! Accept my word for nothing. Go strictly on what you know and have seen over the past years. Knowing that doing nothing illegal will not remove you from being just one more victim of ZOG, knowing that more or less passive resistance to ZOG will get you just as dead or imprisoned as the rest, then you should be able to know that the most as well as the least you can do is seize the initiative for yourself. You have at the same instance everything and nothing to lose. How many more tragic, pathetic massacres, round-ups and roll-overs have to take place before this sinks home?

What if the fanaticism, the personnel and the firepower that existed in the hands of everyone from Koresh to the Weavers to the Montana Freemen to this latest in Texas and dozens of others across the country had come up BEHIND those murderous pigs who were surrounding what should rightfully have been only decoys? What if they or others had decided, rather than to dig in, to go on a hit-and-run spree? Death and/or imprisonment just the same but with a tally that would begin to make some of ZOG's less staunch prostitutes wonder if their paychecks are really worth it. At the same time, the myth implanted in the brains of the population by the ZOG media of ZOG invincibility would be seriously weakened, leading to more and greater.

Just food for thought.

If that cold dread and fear shared by Miles and myself didn't come to pass then, then I am sure all of this and more will dawn over these fresh generations today who are taking these painful, infant steps toward national liberation and the death of ZOG.

Is "Life" the Opposite of "Choice"?

by James Mason

According to the controversy over abortion, "life" IS the opposite of "choice". After all, aren't the two opposing sides known as "Pro-Life" and "Pro-Choice"? But why not "Pro-Death"? Simply because that wouldn't sound very nice and to call it what it is would render it very doubtful as to whether it would attract very many adherents. Is that to imply the "Pro-Life" people have no choice? This is being sarcastic and facetious to a positively irresponsible and irreverent degree - isn't it?

Those who are not part of the Movement and who do not exercise their prerogative to walk all over what's supposed to be "sacred" and "PC" to the fullest are missing out on a lot of fun. The tyranny of lies can't stand to be made fun of. Truth not only hurts, it's positively devastating.

The tactic of the System is to take the worst, most vile and abominable crime and make it appear "reasonable". Then, of course, if you happen to oppose it for what it is, you therefore are "unreasonable". To go even further, you are a "hater", a "bigot", an "extremist". It works.

There are so-called "Hate Groups" but no opposite-number "Love Groups" designated by the media. The present national imperative seems to be to "erase the hate". Hate supposedly is a bad thing but you are nonetheless expected to hate the haters right out of business. I guess that in order to be a "lover" you must out-hate the haters. Or could it be that the media has labelled anything or anyone found outside its own orbit with a dirty name for the sake of eliciting knee-jerk reaction?

Is this beginning to sound like Andy Rooney? Remember when Rooney was suspended from broadcasting for an allegedly "racist" remark? He had to literally crawl his way back into the good graces of his masters by convincing them that he had learned his lesson as to just how far freedom of speech and expression extended. Like a scene right straight out of Stalinist Russia. Now he confines all his clever little ditties to the trite, the silly and the meaningless. But at least it's safe.

You cannot dare to probe the truth or make sport of the lies and hope to remain inside of the System-controlled, lucrative professions. And a sad testimony to human nature is it that this is about all that counts to these types. Take the examples of Jimmy the Greek or Marge Schott or the Texaco executives. You can't even express your own inner beliefs or convictions, can't even make a joke. You can't state a simple fact of history if it conflicts with the official illusion.

This much all by itself reveals what kind of society this is and what it is dominated by. (And notice that I didn't use the word "Jews" even once.)

But it does get serious. We can have fun and games with semantics and rhetoric all day and all night. We can ridicule the pompous and arrogant "commissars" of this neo-Soviet dictatorship together with all their PC thinking and can feel good about it. However, we cannot overlook the damage being done to our people and our future because of it. Foolishness and ridiculousness backed and enforced by state, judicial and economic power flies directly in the face of everything that free, White people are about and literally demands to be knocked down.

Getting back to choices, this nation had choices in the beginning. When it came to North America to found this country, to write its own laws, to set up its own society, with its own leaders, according to its own wishes. To live the way it wanted to live. And by all this it became great. It chose to do these things through the collective will of free, White people.

Then it lost control of the apparatus it had set up for itself, its government, its banking, its media, its educational system, etc., and alien, non-Whites took command - buying the politicians, the priests, the professors, the businesses, etc. Now, suddenly, the choices we had already made for ourselves were no longer acceptable and had to be changed, replaced by new "choices". But only those choices which they, as the new overlords, saw fit to place before us.

And, naturally, all of this move was made to appear "reasonable" by calling it "progress". Somehow, if a certain campaign is initiated by governmental action and ram-rodged through by federal troops, etc., wherever things may find themselves in the next calendar year - by virtue of time only moving forward - that, automatically, has to represent "progress".

In my former neighborhood in Denver - notorious for all its many "gays" (not queers, mind you, but "gays") - all of the several large and wealthy churches displayed the identical, huge banners attached to their facades bearing the slogan, "Celebrating Diversity". Two things struck me at the time about this situation: Christian churches with sexually deviant congregations? God says in the Bible that homosexuals must be put to death. When did he rescind this? And "diversity"? God says in the Bible for his people not to mingle with "strangers". To mingle thus will eventually but surely erase all that lovely diversity and leave only a non-descript, brown mass. We had a common people before, all White. Why couldn't that have been left alone?

Colorado voters made a choice to curb special favors for homosexuals and their choice got nixed by the real bosses. That was not a choice acceptable to them. California voters made a choice to put the brakes on rampant colored immigration taking advantage of the gravy train at their expense. And the same bosses squelched that one, too. Now the same voters are expressing their desire to put an end to "Affirmative Action" and to school busing (drop the innocuous-sounding name and call it forced racial integration of school-age children) since all the phony but "reasonable" hype of a generation ago has worn off, with only the terrible damage remaining. But will they be permitted their choice?

Let's quit playing it coy. Endless examples could be cited to illustrate the lunacy and hypocrisy that seems to be the order of the day. We can, in turn, laugh at it or lament it. Instead, we'd better isolate exactly what it means and determine its greater implications.

We had a happy, healthy and strong country well into the Twentieth Century. But that apparently didn't suit the purposes of those who had sneaked or elbowed their way into power. Everything that had worked so well to build and sustain the family and the nation - the extended family - now all of a sudden had to be dismantled. There's an old adage that says if a thing isn't broken, don't fix it. To tamper with something not in need of repair, i.e., a brilliant, White society, can only lead to problems and it is that, more than anything else, which is the real order of the present day.

The new overlords. Think just about that for a moment. Where does any alien minority get off by insinuating themselves into a position of dominance over the majority? No referendum or the like. Just silently move in and monopolize everything. God in the Bible also commanded his people never to permit "strangers" to be in authority over them. But suppose they weren't aware of it happening. Suppose they never were given a choice in the matter.

Stop and ask yourself why any minority group would even be interested in taking over the affairs of another people in the first place. The nation was already built and doing fine. We needed no "help". Anyone might understand the age-old racket of muscling in on a good deal. It's more difficult to comprehend hijacking a good thing and then deliberately fouling it up. But it is just that which must be understood if there is to be any hope of surviving and possibly undoing the damage that's been done and which continues.

So the way your ancestors set up their country - your country - was no longer acceptable to the new bosses. Usually, if a people swallows just that much, it's a pretty safe bet they'll swallow the rest.

At all costs, at every step along the way, it was and remains absolutely essential that it all be made to appear as though it is your own idea or, at the very least, the "will of the democratic majority". For that is key to keeping hidden the hideous reality that this country is completely in the grip of an alien tyranny. It knows it's got to stay hidden or else share the fate of every other tyranny throughout history.

If this is paranoia, lock me up. Well, first you'll have to release me and then lock me up.

Nothing may be called for what it is. That's the essence of what "PC" is. Ask yourself how that plays along with the meaning of actual freedom of speech. Orwell, in his novel of "1984", termed this "double-speak". But they can't call double-speak double-speak or else you might catch on. So instead it's called PC. Sounds better, more "reasonable".

Their primary stand-by has long been "integration". Look that up in the dictionary and you'll discover nothing unpleasant or menacing in its connotation. In theory it represents social and economic fair play. What kind of a fiend could oppose that? Not widely known is that the bosses were openly boasting a century ago that this very thing would lead to the actual goal of miscegenation: The cross-breeding of races, a thing which God had forbid in the Bible and which our ancestors had made a crime. But back when this campaign was just getting off the ground, they couldn't call it miscegenation lest they themselves be lynched by an outraged White majority. No, it had to be called something else. Something "reasonable".

Consider the role of a media monopoly. That's how you know everything that you know. That's what shapes all of your tastes and opinions. Think you're pretty smart? Try feeding even the most sophisticated computer only garbage and misinformation, deliberately withholding the critical facts, and see what kind of answers and solutions you get back.

Free elections? In a land of mainly Whites, if there were only two White renegade sell-outs in existence, the alien-controlled media would find them and give them the "star treatment" to the exclusion of anyone else. Then, of course, it's your freedom to "choose". Heads, they win. Tails, you lose.

I think I've established that much. But even that isn't the greater point.

The criminal insanity which is governing today didn't and couldn't build a nation. It could only invade an existing nation for purposes of its own. Speculation as to the nature of those purposes aside, the results to date speak for themselves. The bottom line? In 1950 this country was still overwhelmingly White. By the year 2050, Whites will be the minority. Then see where reasonability and fair play will get you.

Whites build nations. Jews invade them. Coloreds destroy them. If I could be more politically incorrect - that is, by System standards - I would be but I think I've expressed the ultimate.

Take a look at any world map and note the vast "brown belt" of lands and civilizations that once were White and prosperous but which now are colored and backward, stricken by poverty, disease and starvation.

Consider overpopulation. No such thing as White overpopulation. Whites as of the time of this writing make up less than ten percent of the total world population. And the United States is rapidly moving in the direction of extending this brown belt of human misery and hopelessness to include North America in the same insidious way as the Sahara Desert continues to extend its desolation over Earth.
